It is hard to believe that any experiments on the surface could produce conditions created by the pressure of 4,000 miles of earth bearing down on the "core." But it is hoped that discoveries will help geologists to locate precious metals.

It is known that the earth is approximately as heavy as though made of steel. Imagine the pressure at the lower end of a steel column 50 miles high.

In the interior of the sun heat rises to fifty million degrees centigrade, according to Jeans, impossible for us to conceive. If an ordinary rifle bullet could be raised to that temperature and you came within 5,000 miles of it, you would shrivel up and disappear.

THOSE WITH LARGE incomes that do not like income tax, prepare to shed large tears or find a lawyer that can show you how to avoid doing what you don't want to do.

The house ways and means committee has marked up maximum income surtaxes to 65 per cent by a vote of 153 to 87. If you have an income above five million dollars a year you must pay 72 per cent, but that, of course, does not worry a majority of us.

It probably does not worry those with more than five million a year much, because they have lawyers clever enough to take care of such emergencies, and it is always a comfort to know that you can buy securities entirely free from income tax, and keep all your income.

BANDIT TRIO ELUDES POSSE IN CHASE HERE

Prospect Bank Robbers Stop in Railroad Yards To Change Auto Tags.

HEAD FOR GREEN CAMP

Stop Made in Search of Gun Gives Bandits Chance To Escape.

Authorities throughout Ohio today were on the lookout for the three bandits who yesterday looted the Prospect Citizens' bank of $9,200.

The bandits narrowly escaped capture on the western outskirts of Marion yesterday afternoon, after eluding a posse of Prospect residents. They were last seen speeding toward Green Camp.

It was learned yesterday afternoon that the license plates, No. 98-112 on the bandits' automobile at the time of the holdup were 1931 plates repainted to resemble 1932 plates. The plates had been issued in Marion last year, authorities said. The original owner of the plates said the plates had been thrown on a rubbish heap several months ago.

Chased 12 Miles

The bandits were pursued for more than 12 miles. A posse made up of Clint Northrup, Curtis Sheppard, Willis C. Emery and Marshal Edward Fitch followed the bandits from Prospect to Marion. Fritch and Emery stopped at a farmhouse on the way up to telephone police while Sheppard and Northrup continued the chase.

The bandits drove their car to a small building just north of the west end of Center street while Northrup ran into a nearby filling station and asked for a gun.

Nothrup said he saw two bandits jump from the automobile and run into the Erie railroad yards while the third stayed at the automobile and changed the license plates. The old plates later were found near the building.

Railroaders See Men

Fred Garvin, a switch tender, Lloyd Garver, a switchman, and Sam Perry, a fireman, said they saw two men, presumably the bandits, run across the Erie yards, and later saw them return to the automobile. They did not suspect that the pair were bandits, but regarded them as suspicious persons. They said the pair reentered the automobile and that all three sped away toward Green Camp.

In the meantime Northrup and Sheppard were at the filling station, unable to obtain a gun. Police were called, and Sheppard remained at the station to talk to the police when they arrived. Northrup gave chase when the bandits drove away toward Green Camp.

Police Join Chase

He followed them several miles but was forced to give up the chase because the motor of his automobile became overheated. The police car overtook Northrup and continued in pursuit, but officers failed to sight the bandits.

The license plates abandoned by the bandits were found by Owen Ingle, who was in a second group of Prospect residents to follow Northrup in pursuit of the bandits.

Authorities searched the railroad yards yesterday afternoon, suspecting the bandits might have hidden their loot, but no trace of the money could be found.

Bandits have held up seven banks in Marion county and vicinity in the last nine months, obtaining loot aggregating $24,841. The Prospect bank was robbed of $10,061 in two holdups, one yesterday and the other Jan. 7. The Morral bank was held up twice and robbed of a total of $3,900. The Farmers' Deposit bank at Richwood was robbed of $10,000, the Green Camp bank of $800, and the Caledonia bank of $80.

102 WOMEN STRIKE PICKETS ARRESTED

Taken in Custody Today at Scranton, Pa., for Defying Police Order.

By The Associated Press

SCRANTON, Pa., March 19—One hundred and two women doing picket duty in the unauthorized strike of mine workers here were arrested by city police when they failed to obey commands to disperse.

The arrests were made at the Marvine mine of the Hudson Coal company, where several hundred strikers went on picket duty in violation of a police order issued last night against all forms of picketing.

Police authorities prepared for drastic moves against the pickets as the result of disorders yesterday and no picketing will be permitted at mines that are operating.

TAKEN TO BABY'S HOME

Arrest of Man in Another Kidnaping Attempt Arouses Interest.

By The Associated Press

HOPEWELL, N. Y., March 19—Henry (Red) Johnson, sailor suitor of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby's nurse, was led about the Lindbergh estate by detectives today, to determine just how much he knew about the house and grounds.

He was not under arrest in connection with the kidnaping, police reiterated, but detectives wanted to learn how much he knew about the estate, in their efforts to discover whether he might have been an unwitting aid to the kidnapers.

While Johnson was being examined at the Lindbergh home another man was arrested at South Plainfield after an attempted kidnaping or burglary at Highland Park, about 20 miles away.

This man, who gave his name as George Malden, was arrested after a grounds keeper at the estate of J. Seward Johnson, wealthy surgical dressing manufacturer, had shot at a man climbing up to the Johnson nursery.

A nurse attracted the grounds keeper's attention when she screamed as a ladder was placed against the window near the room where she slept with the Johnson's infant son. Shots were exchanged and the interloper fled. Malden was arrested and identified by both nurse and grounds keeper.

He was fingerprinted and brought at once to Hopewell because of the similarity of the

RUSSIA FEARFUL OF CONFLICT WITH JAPS

Rushes Food to Key City in Siberia as Preparatory Move.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19— Apparently fearful that fighting in Manchuria may cut off Vladivostok from rail communication with European Russia, the Soviets have been rushing food supplies into the Siberian port.

Information reaching here is that great quantities of wheat and flour have been transported to Vladivostok.

Scattered bands of Chinese opposing the new government under Henry Pu-Yi have been fighting the Japanese at many points along this railway. Japanese forces have been used to suppress outbreaks at many points east of Harbin.

To protect Vladivostok Russia has approximately 50,000 soldiers in the immediate area and is reported to have 50,000 more scattered along this northern railroad line all the way to Chita.

If invasion threatens, either by Chinese under Pu-Yi, or by the Japanese forces cooperating with them, serious consequences may result, especially in view of the Moscow declaration that it fully intends to defend Siberian territory.

NOOSE CLAIMS "BLUEBEARD"

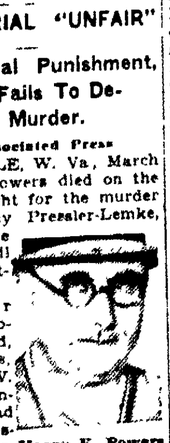
Powers Leaves One Statement Denying Guilt, Another Confessing.

ASSERTS TRIAL "UNFAIR"

Assails Capital Punishment, Saying It Fails To Decrease Murder.

By The Associated Press

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 19—Harry F. Powers died on the gallows last night for the murder of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler-Lemke, who had been one of several "mail order" sweethearts.



Harry F. Powers

Shortly after Powers was pronounced dead, Dr H. H. Haynes, a Clarksburg, W. Va., physician, announced he had a signed confession from the condemned man, admitting in detail the murder of five persons, including Mrs. Pressler-Lemke.

The others were Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children, of Park Ridge, Ill. The bodies of all were buried in a narrow ditch near a garage on Powers' wife's deserted farm near Clarksburg.

The alleged "bluebeard" was brought to trial and convicted only for the death of Mrs. Pressler-Lemke. He denied guilt until the moment of his hanging.

A short time after Powers' body was removed from the death chamber, an envelope addressed to Warden A. C. Scroggins was opened.

Therein was a letter in which the man about to die had protested his innocence. He assailed capital punishment, which he insisted fails to reduce the number of murder cases.

He reiterated that his trial was "unfair," that it was held in an opera house "where people go to be entertained." He recalled he had twice been menaced by a mob, yet had been refused a change of venue.

Powers walked, unassisted, with firm step to the gallows.

Asked if he had anything to say, Powers replied "no" with an emphatic shake of his head.

$1,600 DAMAGE IN FIRE ON HANE AV.

Roof of R. G. Willits Home Destroyed; Firemen Save Furniture.

Damage estimated at $1,600 resulted from a fire which destroyed the roof on the home of R. G. Willits at 220 Hane avenue shortly before noon today.

The fire, believed to have started by sparks from the chimney of a neighboring house, had gained considerable headway when discovered by neighbors and when firemen from the central station arrived, the entire roof was ablaze. Two lines of hose were laid, although but one was used, and the firemen, handicapped by a strong breeze, battled for nearly an hour before the flames were brought under control

The damage to the house was estimated by Fire Chief McFarland at $1,500 and $100 to the contents. Canvas covers placed by firemen over the furniture prevented a more serious loss.

LEE STREET CHURCH TEAM ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stephanson entertained the baseball team of the Lee Street Presbyterian church at a business and social meeting last evening at their home on Avondale avenue. Sixteen members were present. A report was made on the supper held Thursday night in the basement of the church at which 200 were served. Proceeds of the affair will be used to purchase uniforms and other equipment for the team. Announcement was made that several new members would be added to the team this season. Mr. Stephenson is manager of the team, John Marshall, captain, and James Kerr, assistant captain. W. N. Harder was a guest at the meeting. During the social hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Stephenson.

MARION QUARTET TO SING SUNDAY

The Marion Melody Boys, formerly the Osgood quartet, will sing Sunday at the Palace theater in Lorain to assist Rev. E L. Holiday, pastor of the First Baptist church in his special meetings.

Congregations for the meetings have exceeded the capacity of the church and the Sunday meetings have been held at the theater. Rev. Mr. Holiday was formerly pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist church.

The Melody boys will sing both morning and night. It is probable that there will be a radio hookup for the services, they said yesterday.

FLAMES DAMAGE HOUSE; LOSS $800

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 19—The roof and the upper story of the Lester Sweigard farm home five miles north of here was damaged by fire yesterday. The loss was placed at $800. The blaze is thought to have started from a defective flue. Neighbors who formed a bucket brigade and the Crane township fire department battled the flames.

Major General H.A. Drum To Address Marion Vets

Commanding Officer of Fifth Corps Area, U. S. Army, To Be Speaker at Local 40 and 8 Voiture Celebration at Hotel Marion Monday.

A man with a brilliant military career, successor to Major General D. E. Nolan as commanding officer of the Fifth Corps area, U. S. army, will be the speaker when members of the local 40 and 8 Voiture Monday night celebrate their anniversary at a dinner meeting in Hotel Marion.

The speaker will be Major General H. A. Drum of Fort Hayes, Columbus He is commanding officer for army units in Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan, Indiana and West Virginia. He was detailed to command the Fifth Corps area last Dec. 31.

He is the holder of 10 coveted decorations, and has been given citations by Marshal Foch and General Pershing.

He accompanied General Pershing to France in May, 1917, and served at the front with British and French units in 1917. He served with the Forty-second division in sectors about Luneville and Baccarat.

General Drum was appointed by General Pershing as chief of staff for the American combat troops, organizing that army and serving as its chief nearly a year. He prepared plans and directed their execution for the battles of St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne

He was appointed a brigadier general for the war as a reward for the success of the St. Mihiel battle. He has held a number of responsible positions in the standing army since the war.

General Drum began his army career at 18, the son of a captain who was killed in action at San Juan hill. He served in the Phillipines, and other uprisings.

Parks Kennedy, Frank Butterworth, Henry Ackerman and Rex Robinson, members of the Legion quartet, will furnish music Monday night. Harry Gast, chef de guerre, will preside. The 40 and 8 has 90 members.

methods of the Lindbergh baby kidnaper and the man at the Johnson home, both of whom raised ladders to nursery windows.

A convoy of state troopers escorted "Red" Johnson hurriedly here—an then the mystery closed tightly in around this latest move.

Not Entirely Cleared

"Johnson was never completely absolved of connection with the Lindbergh case. Your attention is invited to former bulletins," was all that N. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, would say several hours afterward.

Earlier he had said the police wanted to recheck some of the sailor's statements.

Johnson, who was formerly a deckhand on Thomas W. Lamont's yacht, entered the police investigation a few days after Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr was stolen from his crib March 1. Detectives have asserted repeatedly there was no evidence to link him with the abduction.

He left his Englewood boarding house the day after the kidnaping and went in his automobile to Hartford, Conn. The night before he had a "date" to meet Miss Gow, but the engagement was broken Instead of meeting her, he said, he telephoned her at Hopewell, about the time the kindapers were committing their crime.

Police have explained they were holding him for deportation because he came here from Sweden illegally.

A new theory set detectives to work yesterday. It is that the abductors fooled pursuit by substituting the child for another.

Suspect Possible Exchange

The police think it possible they took the child to a family which already had one of the same age. The custodians of the Lindbergh infant would then have to send their own child away.

That is why two detectives from Newark were in Washington last night checking passport records on the chance the child may have been sent to a foreign country.

The detectives also visited Baltimore on a tip the custodians' real child may have been sent to Europe on the Baltimore mail liner City of Baltimore, which departed for Havre the day after the kidnaping. Ten children were on the ship, the line officials said, and one was about the Lindbergh baby's age.

Meanwhile the pursuit of countless leads and tips went on. An alarm was sent out when some one reported he saw three men drive through Kavport, N. J., with a hole-punched box from which cries of a baby came.

In Pocatello, Ida., Ignace Blaustein recanted his story that he drove the automobile for the kidnapers.

Two servants who quit their jobs in Franklin Park, N. J., the day after the kidnaping were found and explained their movements satisfactorily. The servants, Paul and Katie Engstenberg, had gone to new posts in Bryn Mawr, Pa.

May Freed When Marion Prisoner Repudiates Confession.

James May of Lima, implicated in the quarry murder last summer of Thelma Woods and Earl Truesdale near Lima, by "confessions" of Forest Robert White and another Mansfield reformatory inmate, was released a second time yesterday, according to the Associated Press.

White, who has repudiated both of his confessions involving May, was sent to the reformatory from Marion county.

Mrs. John Woods, mother of the slain girl, yesterday withdrew a murder warrant she had filed a week ago after the Mansfield reformtory convicts "confessed" the double-killing and implicated May

OHIO NOW "WET," CRUSADERS BELIEVE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—The recent statement of Governor George White of Ohio that the drys are making a mistake in opposing reabmission of the 18th amendment is intrepreted by the Crusaders, an anti-prohibition organization, as another indication that Ohio is wet.

The governor's "unexpected announcement really means that the home of the Anti-Saloon league, and probably the most pivotal state in the next election, has become wringing wet," a statement issued by the Crusaders last night said.

The organization claimed 18 or 19 members of the next Ohio congressional delegation would be wet.

"It is not too much to claim that Governor George White is at least moist," the statement asserted.

OHIO GAS CLOSES MT. GILEAD OFFICE

The Mt Gilead office of the Ohio Fuel and Gas Co has been abolished and the office business has been transferred to the district office in this city. OPPOSES SALES TAX

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—Opposition to a sales tax on basic food products and other necessities of life, was expressed by C. A. Dyer, legislative agent of the Ohio grange, in letters to Ohio's 22 congressmen and two senators.

OUTLINES PLAN FOR EXTRA OHIO SESSION

White Would Limit Legislature to Consideration of His Proposal.

the legislation outlined "is necessary because of the present emergency which threatens grave danger to the peace, health and welfare of the people of Ohio."

"Conditions of wide-spread unemployment and necessity for relief in many communities constitutes an extraordinary occasion in this state, making necessary the convening of the general assembly of Ohio in extraordinary session."

Purpose Restricted

The governor's call is believed to be the most restricted ever issued by a chief executive since the constitutional provision giving him authority to limit the activities of a special legislative session was enacted. If followed literally it would virtually bar the assembly's consideration of any other plan of relief which may be brought forward.

While there is grave doubt as to the authority of the executive to limit the legislature to consideration of specific methods to accomplish the end desired, he is in a position by his veto power to virtually force enactment of his program.

It is possible that the assembly may consider ratification of the "lame duck" amendment to the federal constitution which would change the terms of the President and members of congress so they would begin on the first Monday of January after their election. The amendment now is on file with the secretary of state and if he transmits it to the asembly, action probably will be taken.

Inasmuch as the governor has no official duties to perform in connection with ratification of a federal amendment, the action is solely a concern of the assembly, and many believe the special legislative session has full authority to act.

IRVIN'S CAREER RIVALS ALGER TALE

New Steel Head Worked Way Up from Bottom

By International News Service

NEW YORK—The appointment of William A. Irvin to the presidency of the mighty United States Steel Corporation marks the climax of another romance of modern business that rivals anything ever written by Horatio Alger.

The appointment, made at an executive luncheon, came as a complete surprise to Wall Street and to the rank and file of the corporation staff in the New York executive offices. The new president had managed to keep himself so unobtrusive as to be actually unknown to a large number of the personnel at the company's offices.

There is some reason for this, as Mr. Irvin had only been in New York for the last six months and, as his job as vice president had been to supervise operations, he was more often out in the steel mills, than he was in his office on Broadway. Also, his family and home being in Pittsburgh, he spent as much time as possible there.

Started To Work Early

The new president, who is to wear the mantle of Schwab, Gary and "Big Jim" Farrell, is a native Pennsylvanian, having been born in Indiana, Pa., in 1873, the son of a contractor. Eager to begin earning his own living, young Will left school at an early age and tackled any odd jobs that showed up, however, continuing to take night courses at the Indiana State Normal school.

In 1888, the man who was destined to head one of the richest organizations in the world got his first regular job as a telegraph messenger for the Pennsylvania railroad and it wasn't long until he learned how to operate the instrument and was entrusted with an operating job. He can still tickle the key tolerably well.

The next step in his climb to the pinnacle he now occupies was his promotion to ticket agent. But deciding he had quite enough of railroading, he quit his job and got a position as shipping clerk with the P. H. Laufmann Co., Ltd., of Apollo, Pa.

Steel His "Magnet"

Steel had the same attraction for Irvin as a magnet has for steel, so it was no wonder that the young man made rapid progress in the world of blast furnaces. He rose through various mill jobs, always studying the work of the man ahead, until he reached the post of superintendent.

Fate smiled on his efforts when in 1900 the Laufmann plant was taken over by the American Sheet Steel company and he was taken over with it, being transferred to the New York offices for a few years. From then on the going was fairly smooth. Owing to Irvin having learned steel from cellar to attic, there was no angle of the industry unfamiliar to him, and when the American Sheet Steel merged with the American Tin Plate company in 1904 as a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, Irvin went back to Pittsburg as operating vice president, a position he held until six months ago, when he was summoned to New York as operating vice president of the parent company.

No Surprise to Some

Although, as has been pointed out, Irvin's appointment to the throne of the steel industry came as a surprise to many, it is considered the most logical choice by the new president's colleagues who are familiar with his brilliant record in the steel industry.

So unostentatious has been Irvin's work that he is not even listed in the directory of directors, nor in Who's Who, nor in the corporation's library. Consequently embarrassment was acute in the Broadway offices when members of the staff were approached for information about the new chief. Some of the clerks confessed they'd never heard of William A Irvin, while others vaguely remembered that a quiet, unassuming vice president on about the sixteenth floor might be the Mr. Irvin named as the big chief.

Meanwhile the new king of steel had quietly hied him to his beloved Pittsburgh to celebrate with his family.

N. Y. Service League Retrains Girls Unfitted for Office Work

By International News Service

NEW YORK—The bitter experience of tramping the streets day after day in search of work that is snatched from under their noses by better-trained, better-educated girls has done a great deal to weed out incompetent office workers.

That is one future benefit of this economic period, anyhow, according to the Girls' Service league.

The stenographer with no background of knowledge and weak acquaintance with spelling has found herself pushed right out of the picture these days There are plenty of educated, experienced girls to take her place

But by the time prosperity gets within sight the poor stenographer may be a good houseworker, paperbox maker, bookbinder or seamstress

For an extensive program of retraining has been undertaken by this organization dealing with girls under 22, a program encouraging the metamorphosis with practical aid.

"We have three ways of helping the untrained or incompetent office worker," said Miss Stella A. Miner, director of the league, which is raising a $100,000 fund for the work. "Through our Vestibule school we give the opportunity to unemployed girls to work up their speed in dictation and typing, to learn bookkeeping, spelling, etc While they are waiting for jobs they are able to perfect themselves

"But if they just can't make the grade in office work, they can go to the Workshop or the Scientific Housekeeping Center."

At the Workshop 55 girls are trained daily in the sewing and pasting trades—making candy boxes, picture frames, tablecloths, trash baskets, and paid a tide-over wage of $8 a week while they are learning.

The Scientific Housekeeping Center teaches girls how to do general housework It is a godsend for out-of-town girls who are assured of a roof over their heads and three meals a day if they go out as general houseworkers. They get a starting wage of $35 a month, and expenses Thirty girls a month are graduated from the center.

"When we see a girl's record and know she has never held a job six weeks at a time, we know there is something wrong," said Miss Miner. "Either she has insufficient education, insufficient training, or a personality difficulty. In any case she is replaceable in her chosen field—and re-training gives her a new chance."

HOOVER OUTLINES RAILWAY PROGRAM

Funds Required for Relief Less Than Expected.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—President Hoover, in a formal statement, today reported the financial necessities of the nation's important rail carriers were less than at first thought, and that a coordinated plan of relief had been formed.

The President estimated the aid required in meeting the interest and renewal of railway securities together with other obligations during 1932, would range from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000.

Estimating that as much as $60,000,000 might be provided by the Railway Credit Corporation, the President stated "recourse to the Reconstruction Corporation by the railroads will be much less than was originally thought."

Commenting upon the series of railway conferences, climaxed by one at the White House late yesterday with 15 outstanding railway chiefs, Mr. Hoover said "the coordination of programs and policies had been arrived at by the government and the railway agencies to effect" a meeting of the situation.

They were married April 27, 1919, according to the petition. On Dec. 2, 1928, she left him, and never has returned, he avers. Frank Wiedemann is counsel for Rhodes.

Case Settled

The contested cognovit action of Dean C. Ridgeway against Cyril D. Burgess and others has been settled in common pleas court.

To Publish Notice

Ann Johnson has asked permission of Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court to obtain service of summons on Carl Johnson, whom she is suing for divorce, by publication, as his residence is not known.

Entertains Class.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Clark of 751 Bellefontaine avenue entertained the Onward Bible class of Oakland Evangelical Sunday school Thursday night at their home. Contests were in keeping with St. Patrick's day and the program included a recitation by Mozelle Haas and several vocal numbers by Harley Murphy and Orville Boggs. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Harley Murphy, Mr. and Mrs Willard Clark and H. N. Thompson. The next meeting will be April 21.

Art Exhibit Planned.

Plans were made for an art exhibit of work done by the Oak Street school pupils at the next meeting on April 15 by the Oak Street Parent-Teacher council last night at the school building. Community singing was led by Mrs Grover C. Snyder and a talk on "Education of the Child" was given by Rev. James M. Fisher. The traveling picture was presented the first grade pupils for having the largest number of parents in attendance.

M'CLUNG HELD HERE ON MURDER CHARGE

they were quarreling about gambling debts. Police said they also learned the two men had had shooting dice earlier in the evening.

During the quarrel, witnesses told police, McClung suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket, pressed the barrel against Jenkins' body and pulled the trigger. Jenkins was assisted into the office of Dr. Mattox and was later taken to police headquarters. Contrary to the first reports that Dr. Mattox had made a hasty examination without finding any wound, the physician said this morning that he advised police to take Jenkins to the City hospital immediately.

He was taken to police headquarters, however. When police removed his overcoat they found traces of blood on his clothing and was then taken to the City hospital.

McClung, who was arrested in the office of the physician, was also taken to headquarters where police said they found a loaded .38 calibre revolver with one empty cartridge in his possession

Widow, Children Survive

It was erroneously stated in the Thursday issue of The Star that Deputy Sheriff Chester Cosgrove assisted Jenkins into the office of Dr. Mattox immediately following the shooting Cosgrove this morning said that he drove past the office shortly before Jenkins was shot, but that he was not at the office at any time. He accompanied Jenkins in the ambulance from police station to the City hospital.

George Orzo Jenkins was born on a Farmland, Ind., to Orzo and Mary Louis Conyers Jenkins, both deceased. He was married March 1, 1925, in Marion to Melba Lee Tipton.

His widow survives with three children, Betty, 6, Jackie and Ronald, 13 months. He is also a brother Edward Jenkins of Louis, Mo., and his half brothers and sisters, Catherine, Mary Thomas, Clara and John Jenkins all of St. Louis and Frances Rogers and Lester Taylor, all of Marion.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on east Center street with Rev S. Porter of Emmanuel Baptist church in charge. The hour of the service will be announced Monday. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. The body will remain at the funeral home.

"Nia", Wife Says

Well the phone rings. You know how that scares you away in the night? You think of the ones that are not there with you. Mrs. Rogers was with my sister in Chelsea (twenty miles from Claremore). She dident fly home from the East with me. She dont mind short flights of a couple of three hours but when they run into days, she believes that old man Pullman had a pretty good idea how to cross this Continent, and she has made it so much that she knows every jack rabbit or coyote from California to Kansas. Her being away when the phone rang, and two boys scattered around in schools, of which we hadent heard from since Christmas.

But when I am half asleep and nervously grabbed the phone and it was young Bill Hearst from New York. I couldent think what in the world it was. I had just been up to his fathers ranch about half way between Frisco and here, and I thought mayby I did something up there that I shouldent. Maby some of the silver is missing. Maby there is an old William the Conqueror Tapestry missplaced. In fact there is so much devilment up there that a country boy could do, that I couldent think of what it was I had done. I remembered riding off horseback with the cattle boss, and spending the whole day, when I should have been maby with the other guests at the Castle. But there was lots of lawyers among the guests, and I knew cows better than I did Lawyers. There is a way of studying a cow and learning all about her, but a lawyer? There has never been any course at college devised where you can take in "What makes a lawyer like he is?"

Crowds Out China

This young Bill Hearst Jr. is a mighty promising young fellow, and looks like he is going to pick up W. R.'s trail and keep the ink smearing over half the pulp wood of Canada. Then when he says, "The Lindbergh Baby has been kidnaped," well that put a different complexion on life. What did General Honjo taking Manchuria amount to? We would give the whole mess of candidates on both sides for the return of the Baby.

It was just one of those things that hit you right between the eyes. It was then five thirty in the morning in New York, and he said they had been up all night working on the case. He said that he had just had Arthur Brisbane on the wire for a couple of hours down at his home in New Jersey, and Mr. Brisbane wanted him to get me, that I was the last newspaper man to have seen the child. And would I tell 'em some more about it? So I told him what little I knew over the phone, which dident take me long. Its as I have told you in my little daily blurb, we have spent the day out there, not at the Lindbergh home, but at the Morrow home, where the Lindberghs live most of the time.

In fact my wife and I discussed going home that evening as to whether the Lindberghs would ever live at their new home. You see it was started before Mr. Morrow's death. But since then, of course that puts a whole new complexion on all their lives. Mrs. Morrow is naturally crazy about the Baby, as are all the family, and they have this great big lively home at Englewood, that this Baby and the Family all being there would just help to make up for some of the loss of Mr. Morrow. Its just a sad state of affairs, for here was this man Morrow who was as sure to be one of the pillars in our destiny as night was to follow day

Still a Hero

You dident find a public man like that once in a lifetime. He had ability combined with common sense. Everything that come up he just took all the "Hooey" out of it and brought it down to just an every day problem. The bigger the problem the easier it was to sove diplomatically with him, for he knew it only took square dealing on both sides, and the other fellow knowing how on the level Morrow was, why naturally he turned "Straight" too. We all know a lot of these little old one-horse papers in New York have taken digs at Lindbergh. It made a lot of them sore because he dident want their publicity. They cant understand anyone that dont want their names in the papers. He did his stunt and he wanted to be let alone, and live his life the way he saw fit. But no. These birds must start tormenting him, when he dont do like they want him to, then the little scandal sheets started "gunning" for him.

Why there is nothing that he has done since his flight that has not reflected credit on him and the whole people who are pround of him. Heroe's are made every little while, but only one in a million conduct themselves afterwards so that it makes us proud that we honored them at the time. As I have always argued that fellow has a native intitution to do the right thing. In China, Japan, Mexico, France or New Jersey, he hasent made a wrong move yet His wife has proven a lovely sweet American Girl. She has at the risk of her own life taken up her husbands profession and anything said against them in any way, must come through nothing but jealousy.

CHURCHES TO OBSERVE OPENING OF HOLY WEEK SUNDAY

Members of Protestant Groups Plan Services

Most Elaborate Program for Period Planned at St. Paul's Episcopal Church; Sermons To Deal with Events in Last Days of Christ's Life.

"And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way. And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest."

Matt. 21:8-9.

Sunday will mark the opening of holy week services in Marion churches. Throughout the week, Protestant and Catholic churches will hold services.

St. Paul's Episcopal church has outlined the most elaborate of the Protestant observances. Palm Sunday will be marked by the procession of palms, mattins and sermon at 10:30 a. m.

The evening services in holy week at St. Paul's church will be held in the chapel. On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 7:30 p. m. the litany, passion reading and penitential office will be given. Two communion services will be held on Maunday Thursday, at 7 and 10 a. m.

Holy week services will be held at Grace Evangelical, Emanuel's Lutheran, Epworth M. E., Trinity Baptist, Forest Lawn Presbyterian, Central Christian, Salem Evangelical and Wesley M. E. churches and the First Church of the Brethren.

Theme of Sermons

Christ's entrance into Jerusalem will be the theme of Sunday's sermons, with many of the pastors emphasizing the significance of Palm Sunday. The First Reformed church will be decorated with palms.

Special Sunday services have been planned, including an Easter cantata Sunday night at Salem Evangelical church.

Rev. W. Martell George of Wesley M. E. church, Rev. H. H. Maxwell of Grace Evangelical church, Rev. James O. Dodd of Central Christian church, Rev. Paul H. Bourquin of Salem Evangelical church and Rev. G. G. Canfield of the First Church of Brethren have arranged a series of exchange sermons for Holy Week.

The five ministers have arranged to exchange pulpits on the first four nights of the week, and to conduct services in their own churches on Good Friday night. The sermons will be on subjects concurrent with the day in the passion of Jesus.

Services at the five churches have been outlined for the five nights, with the five ministers named in the order of the nights they will preach, as follows:

Four Special Services

Holy week will be observed in Emanuel's Lutheran church with four special services on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p. m. Rev. James W. Schillinger, pastor, will continue his series of Lenten sermons on the general theme, "Love Streams Down from Calvary's Cross."

His sermon subjects for the four nights follow: Tuesday, "Love for Mortal Enemies"; Wednesday, "Love for Beloved Friends"; Thursday, "Love for a Dying Criminal"; Friday, "Love for the Redeemed Church." Holy communion will be celebrated Thursday night. Special music will be sung at Emanuel's choir at all services.

St. Paul's English Lutheran church will have guest ministers for three of the holy week services to be held each night at 7:30 except Saturday. Rev. B. Tyler Gates, pastor, will preach on Monday and Wednesday nights. On Tuesday night Rev. A. E. Hiebert of Caledonia will preach and on Thursday night Rev. Dana Johnson of the First Lutheran church at Marysville will deliver the sermon. Rev. W. H. Blough, field representative of Wittenberg college, will preach on Friday night.

Pre-Easter services will be conducted each night except Saturday, at Trinity Baptist church. Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor, will preach. Music for the services will be in charge of Dale Gorman, director of music, with the church organist, Miss Grace Durfee, playing.

Throughout the week, the congregation will read the gospel according to John, in preparation for Easter.

Rev. J. A. Carriker of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church has arranged sermon talks on the general subject, "How Christ Redeems," to be given each night except Saturday. The senior and young people's choirs will provide music for the services.

Outline of Sermons

An outline of the sermons follows: Monday, "Who is Jesus, (God or Man)"; Tuesday, "What Jesus Says, Believe (Everyday Faith)"; Wednesday, "What Jesus Says, Do (Everyday Deeds)"; Thursday, "What Jesus Says About the Future (Rewards and Judgments)"; Friday, "What Jesus Does About Sin." The Friday night observance will be a candle light and communion service.

Holy week services will be conducted at Oakland Evangelical church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p. m. Communion services will be held Friday night.

Dr. C. E. Turley of Epworth M. E. church will deliver the following sermons at 7:30 p. m.: Tuesday, "The Imperishable Message"; Wednesday, "Christ's Estimate of His Mission"; Thursday, "The World's Most Courageous Man"; Friday, "The Crucifixion of Jesus."

The choir, under the direction of Knox Dunlop, will sing selections from Stainer's oratorio, "The Crucifixion," Friday night. A large painting of Christ will be displayed each night, and special services will be held to include mention of the picture.

A Palm Sunday confirmation service will be held Sunday at 10:30 a. m. at Salem Evangelical church for the class of eight confirmands. Rev. Paul H. Bourquin, pastor, will deliver a sermon on the subject, "Let Thy Garments Be Always White."

F. O. Van Sickle of Cardington will be a guest soloist in the Easter Cantata, "Victory" by H. Wildermere, which will be presented at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. W. B. Long will direct the choir, with Miss Elfrieda Horn as organist.

The Cleansing Blood

A SERMONETTE

BY
REV. JAMES W. SCHILLINGER
Pastor, Emanuel Lutheran Church

THE CENTRAL TEACHING of the whole Bible is the precious truth, that the blood of Jesus washes all of our sins away. This is the very heart, soul, essence of the whole Christian religion.

It has become popular today, with some who pose as religious, to mock at this teaching. One calls it "the imagery of blood of an oldtime religion." Another says that "this bloody religion belongs to only a former century." Another calls it "a theology which suggests a shambles." What a pity that men will deign to make sport of a teaching which is not only the central theme of the Bible but also a most precious comfort to every troubled soul.

Moses believed this teaching; he instructed that the blood of the passover lamb be put on the door posts, that the blood of the sacrifice be sprinkled on the altar. David believed it, he said: "Purge me with hysop and I shall be clean; wash me and I shall be whiter than snow." Isaiah believed it; he said: "He was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities; with His stripes we are healed." John the Baptist believed it; he said: "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." The dear Savior Himself believed it; He said: "I give my life a ransom for many," and "My blood which is shed for the remission of sins." Saint Paul believed it; he said: "We have redemption through His blood, even the forgiveness of sins." Saint Peter believed it; he said: "We are redeemed not with corruptible things, but with the precious blood of Christ." Saint John believed it; he said, "The blood of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, cleanseth us of all sin." The blessed in heaven all believe it; they are glorifying Christ eternally because "He redeemed them with His blood and made them kings and priests unto God." God himself believes it; He points to the saints who stand about His throne and says "These are they who have come out of great tribulation and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

Sinful man, believe that Jesus died for you; believe that He has washed all of your sins away with His own precious blood; trust Him alone for this. He will fill your heart with peace; He will give you strength to bear all of life's burdens and trials; He will give you rest and joy which shall endure forever.

EVANGELISTS COMING

MISS ADA BARR AND MISS FRANCES NEEL

Revival services will open Sunday at 3:15 p. m. at the Full Gospel Assembly of the Assembly of God, with Miss Ada Barr, left above, and Miss Frances Neel, right, in charge. Both are graduates of Peniel Bible Institute in Dayton.

They have been in continuous revival service since their graduation in 1930 and will come here from a revival at the Assembly of God church at Tippecanoe City. Both young women preach, sing and play the piano and guitar.

Services will be held each night at 7:30. Rev. B. E. Hillman, pastor, will preside.

SPRING RALLY DAY SERVICES PLANNED

Sunday School at First Presbyterian Church Arranges Program.

A spring rally day service will be held Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church. Rally days have always been conducted in the fall, but to arouse the interest of the Sunday school for a large attendance Easter Sunday, the spring services was decided upon, Rev. H. L. Olewiler, pastor, said yesterday.

The classes will meet in their rooms and assemble in the auditorium for the program. Arthur S. Brooks, Boy Scout executive, will deliver the address.

The Sunday school orchestra will play an opening number, "Cavalleria Rusticanna," after which Norman Morton will give the call to worship. Mary Grubaugh will give the prayer of invocation. A quartet, composed of Ana Beth Pohler, Virginia Bachman, Leonard Young and E. H. Cowan will sing preceding a scripture reading by Mary Alice Boyd.

Betty Mautz will offer prayer and the orchestra will play. Mr. Brooks' address will be followed by a selection, "Easter Morn," played by a string sextet. The Lord's prayer, repeated by the Sunday school and a postlude played by the orchestra will close the program.

Significance of Period Explained by Catholics

Rev. Father W. J. Spickerman and Rev. Father E. H. Summe of St. Mary's Church Prepare Discourse on Meaning of Holy Week.

St. Mary's Catholic church will celebrate holy week with solemn rites. The lenten and Easter services are the most important religious observances in the Catholic calendar, and in announcing the ceremonies and the significance each typifies, Rev. Father William H. Spickerman, pastor, and Rev. Father Edward H. Summe, assistant pastor, have prepared the explanation which is given below.

"The services of the Catholic church are symbolic of the great events of the week, and while they are somber and filled with sorrow, they are, nevertheless, most inspiring," Rev. Father Spickerman said.

The outline of services, times of masses and confessions and Good Friday devotions are included in the following discourse:

Opens Holy Week

"What is commonly known as Palm Sunday opens holy week. On this day it has been a long standing custom to bless palms or branches of trees. This service calls to our mind the entry of Christ into the city of Jerusalem, a few days before His passion and death. Riding on the back of a donkey, men laid down their cloaks and branches from the trees, over which He was to pass. This was considered as a recognition of His regal character.

"Palms will be blessed at 11 a. m., immediately preceding the high mass. During the mass the account of the passion of our Lord according to St. Matthew will be read. The similar stories of the same passion according to St. Mark, St. Luke and St. John will be read on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of holy week.

"Of special significance are the services on Holy Thursday. On this day we celebrate the anniversary of the institution of the blessed sacrament, recalling from the sacred Scriptures the last supper, which Christ ate with apostles. On this day a special mass of the blessed sacrament will be celebrated, during which two particles of the bread will be consecrated, one to be received by the celebrating priest, the other to be reserved for the adoration of the people. After the mass a procession with the blessed sacrament will be made from the main altar of celebration to some side chapel or altar. Here the Catholics come to pray during the course of the day until Good Friday morning to adore, thank, and to petition Christ present in the Holy Eucharist. Besides, congregational devotions are held sometime during the day. Such devotions will be held here at 7 p. m. All other altars, except the one which reserves the blessed sacrament during the day, are stripped of their adornments, to signify the sorrow of all at the coming of the passion and death of Christ.

Anniversary of Redemption

"Good Friday is a day beloved by every Christian, since it is the anniversary of man's redemption, while on the other hand it evokes sympathy for the sufferings of our Lord. Draped in black, the Catholic church begins her mourning services by praying for all groups of society. This is followed by the passion of our Lord according to St. John. The cross, which has been covered since Passion Sunday, or two weeks before Easter, will be unveiled, and the priest and his assistants venerate it, in three deep prostations. The procession with the blessed sacrament from the side altar then wends its way back to the main altar. Then follows the mass of the presanctified, as it is called, since there can be no special mass on this day of universal mourning. Here the sacred particle is consumed by the priest, and the service for the morning is concluded. The cross is left in some conspicuous place for the veneration of the people during the day.

"A devotion that always has been very popular in the Catholic church is that of the Three Hours on the Cross, which reminds us of the three hours of pain and suffering of Christ on the cross. This is conducted between the hours of noon and 3 p. m., and consists of prayers, hymns, the Way of the Cross and sermons on the Seven Last Words which Christ spoke on the cross during this time before He expired. Such will be conducted at St. Mary's church. The hymns will be sung by a specially trained choir of children from St. Mary's school. The Way of the Cross between 1:30 and 2 p. m. will be said by Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, pastor, and the prayers, specially adapted for the devotion, by the Rev. Lawrence B. Molyneaux, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes at Marysville. The sermons on the Seven Last Words will be preached by the Rev. Father Edward H. Summe. After the devotions at 3 p. m. the blessing will be given with the relic of the true cross. The relic will then be exposed for veneration.

Holy Saturday Services

"The services for Holy Saturday consist of the blessing of the Easter fire, the Paschal candle, the Easter water and the baptismal water. The blessing of the Easter fire is one of very early origin. From the fourth century it was customary to bless at the close of the day the fire that was to light the candles for the office of vespers. This was discontinued during the last three days of holy week, because of the disarrangement in the order of the services. The usage was later confined to the day before Easter, and became a ceremony peculiar to this day. This fire is an image of the new law which Christ brought into the world.

"The Paschal candle is larger than the ones ordinarily used and is made of pure wax. This is also of very early origin, and goes back to the time when the patriarch of bishop of Alexandria would write the day of Easter and the dependent movable feasts on a pillar or tablet of wax. The waxen staff was soon changed into a torch to give light on Easter night to symbolize the risen Saviour. Such is its meaning now, and it stands as a torch on the left side of the main altar from Easter to the ascension, when Christ ascended into heaven. Immedded in it are also five waxen nails, to symbolize the five wounds of Christ.

"The baptismal water is used for the solemn administration of baptism, and is blessed with a few short prayers and mixed with the oil especially blessed by the bishop once a year, in his cathedral. Oil has always been used in the administration of certain sacraments, and signifies strength."

The services for Thursday and Friday will begin at 8 a. m. and those on Saturday at 7 a. m.

Confessions for Holy Thursday and Easter will be heard on Wednesday and Saturday at 3 and 7:30 p. m.

The services are an annual Lenten observance of the Protestant churches. The Good Friday services also will be held at St. Mary's Catholic church, instead of the customary three services at St. Paul's Episcopal church this year a last hour Protestant service will be held at 2:30 p. m. The service will consist of three brief addresses on the Seven Crosses of Calvary," with silences, prayers, hymns and responses.

The theme of service.

"The Seven Sayings of Christ on the Cross," the theme of the three services, will be developed in addresses by seven ministers.

Music, rendered by organ and vocal numbers, will be delivered as follows:

The first word, "Father Forgive Them," by Rev. J. A. Carriker of Fairlawn Presbyterian church; the second word, "Today Thou Shalt Be with Me in Paradise" by Rev. Paul Pottorf of Fite Memorial church; the third word, "Woman Behold Thy Son" by Rev. H. H. Maxwell of Grace Methodist church; the fourth word, "My God Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me" by Rev. James O. Baird of Central Christian church; the fifth word, "I Thirst" by Rev. Robert W. Hucke of the First Reformed church; the sixth word, "It is Finished" by Rev. W. Martell George of Wesley M. E. church; the seventh word, "Father Into Thy Hands I Commend My Spirit" by Rev. Lawrence A. Wood of Grace Baptist church.

Organ Prelude

Miss Ruth W. Baker will play the organ prelude opening the services after which the congregation will sing "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Rev. M. L. Buckley, pastor of Central Christian church will read the scripture lesson, Isaiah 53rd chapter and Rev. Paul H. Bourquin of Salem Evangelical church will offer prayer.

A male quartet from Calvary church will sing. Knox Dunlop of Epworth M. E. church and Rev. G. G. Canfield of the First Church of the Brethren will sing solos. Mr. Dunlop's solo will be "God My Father Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me," by Dubois.

Hymns which the congregation will sing will be "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," "O Love that Will Not Let Me Go" and "There is a Fountain Filled with Blood."

Rev. H. E. Williamson of Oakland Evangelical church will pronounce the benediction following a communion service at which Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor of Calvary church, will preside.

The public has been extended a cordial invitation from the ministerial association to attend the services. Those who will be unable to stay for the three hours, have been asked to sit in the rear of the church and to come or go during the singing of a hymn.

EASTER SERVICES PLANNED BY CLUBS

Hi-Y and Girl Reserves Will Have Series of Programs Next Week.

Annual pre-Easter services of the Hi-Y and Girl Reserve clubs of Harding High school will begin Monday morning in the Central Christian church, it was announced today.

Early morning services will be held four days, and the series will be brought to a climax by a special program Easter morning at the Harding memorial, to which the public is invited.

The series of programs will be devotional in nature, and topics to be discussed by speakers will touch on significant incidents preceding the crucifixion. The clubs will be in complete charge of the programs.

High school students and other young persons are invited to attend the series of meetings in the Central Christian church. The first will be Monday at 7:45 a. m. Rev. Albert Slack, pastor of the Asbury M. E. church, will speak on "The Lord's Supper."

The Tuesday morning program will be featured by a talk on "Gethsemane," by R. F. Fletcher. Miss Winona Hughes will speak on "The Trial" Wednesday morning, and Rev. Robert W. Hucke of the First Reformed church will speak about "The Crucifixion" Thursday morning.

Special music will be furnished each morning by the club members, and each club will have charge of the services on alternate mornings.

Rev. J. O. Dodd will deliver the Easter message at the Harding memorial Easter day at 7:30 a. m., and Knox Dunlop will lead singing.

Daily Proverb—"He who partakes the honor, should participate in the labor.'

Down in Mexico, all government offices were closed Friday for a nine-day holiday over Laster. Just an amplification of the manana habit

It would be interesting to know just how that estimated $84,698 deficit in relief funds in Marion county up to December 31 of this year, reported by Columbus, was figured. Does it include the funds which will be raised in the various political divisions of the country, or are we going in wholly for state socialism?

The friends of Governor Roosevelt, of New York, seem to be getting a lot of satisfaction over his victory over "Alfalfa Bill" Murray in the North Dakota primary. What possible chance would there be for victory by any Democratic presidential candidate who couldn't outrun "Alfalfa Bill" in any state in the union, with the possible exception of Oklahoma?

A New York City salesman of punchboards attempted to dispose of his wares in a Detroit police station, evidently ignorant of the fact that punchboards are unlawful in Michigan, and is now a far wiser and sadder man There isn't any escaping the conclusion that some mighty odd things come out from New York City.

Treasury receipts from income taxes are said to be running about forty per cent. behind those of 1931. Maybe, however, the government estimate on which the dispatch was based didn't include the returns of the big end of us hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs.

The confirmation of the promotion of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, to the federal circuit bench is being supported by anti-crime leaders, while a large element of the opposition to confirmation is made up of racketeers, crooks and gangsters. The situation should prove easy for the senate, but seemingly it is just as cowardly regarding the possible political effect of confirmation as it is along some other lines.

The president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the officers of New York Local, No. 8, have been cited to appear before Supreme Court Justice Glennon and show cause why they should not be restrained from "further persecuting" fifteen members of the union who have asked that the men cited be made to account for $7,500,000 of union funds in the last five years Haven't the fifteen in question any sense of delicacy whatever?

A Sweet Singer Gone.

Announcement of the death of Chauncey Olcott—actor, minstrel, balladist—in Monte Carlo, Friday morning, without a doubt recalled to a number of Marionites the thrill they experienced on his first appearance in this city when he took the part of the white Hanky-Poo in Thatcher, Primrose and West's "Black Mikado."

Those of us who heard him from time to time after he had succeeded Scanlan and became recognized as the stage's leading singer of Irish songs realized that cultivation had improved his technique, but his voice never attained purer, sweeter tones than those he uttered when he appeared here at the beginning of his career as a minstrel and sang "A Wandering Minstrel."

Olcott's voice was called a tenor, but in it there was nothing of the strained effects so common to tenor voices, and it possessed almost the range of a soprano.

One of his peculiarities was that he seldom, if ever, stood still while singing. Far more often than commonly he sang while seated, or stretched out at full length with head resting on hand, or reclining on a bench or chair, or while dancing about the stage. As a matter of fact, he sang in just about every position in which a singer would not be expected to sing, and he was so handsome and so graceful withal that there seemed nothing incongruous about it. No matter what his position, he sang seemingly with as little effort as a bird.

It was Olcott's singing of "My Wild Irish Rose" which gave it a popularity alike throughout this country and the British isles such as is seldom attained by a sentimental lyric, but his own version of "Kathleen Mavourneen" and a number of other songs which were manifestly favored by him possessed far greater merit.

Olcott was last billed to appear here something like four or five years ago, but illness forced the cancellation of the engagement, and he has been off the stage practically ever since. He would have been seventy-two had he lived until next July.

A Special Session Called.

Against political counsel, contrary to the opinions of certain legislative leaders and with the utmost reluctance, Governor White has decided to call the general assembly into special session to provide means of relieving the burden of unemployment on local divisions of government.

The assembly faces a difficult task, which must be managed quickly with no bungling It will not be acting to fortify county governments against future demands, but against demands which exist now. Governor White delayed calling the session until he was convinced of the necessity for action.

The major portions of his proposed legislative program call for an increase in excise taxes on gross earnings of public utilities, excepting transportation companies; diversion of local shares of gasoline tax and automobile license revenues to relief purposes where desired, and permission to counties to issue five-year relief bonds, to be financed out of revenue from the utilities excise tax and the gasoline tax.

Previous attempts to increase the utilities tax in the recent regular session of the assembly were defeated, the utilities arguing that to increase their taxes would be to force them to increase their rates. Diversion of revenue from gasoline taxation and license fees has been stoutly opposed on good grounds by automotive and highway interests. Further increases in bonded indebtedness were rejected wholesale by voters at the polls last November. There is a difficult road ahead.

A disturbing phase of the situation to many is that, while the assembly is called into special session to enact relief legislation and is limited to the enactment of relief measures, it is in no way bound to adopt the governor's recommendations and may enact a measure or measures far away from the lines suggested by him. In the face of the emergency which exists, and made the targets for the big lobbies Ohio mayors are being urged to send to Columbus to work for more generous relief than the governor has contemplated, there is always the chance that the members of the general assembly may go to the extreme and enact legislation which may work future harm out of all proportion to the present good it may accomplish.

The time is one when there is need of good, sound sense and strong leadership.

So Forba, a fifty-to-one shot, won the British Grand National at Aintree, yesterday, while the short-money carriers were away back in the muck? Still, the dopesters can hardly be blamed for falling down on picking the fast ones over a course like Aintree. There's a decided element of luck, chance, whateyer you may call it, in finishing a Grand National at all.

P. T. Barnum's Theory.

There is some question as to whether Conrad Nagel, motion picture actor, did service or disservice for his profession the other night by telling every one who cared to listen that reports of five, six and seven-figure salaries are pure hokum. As a servant of truth, Mr. Nagel performed nobly. As a follower of P. T. Barnum's theory he wandered far afield.

P. T., master showman of them all, proceeded always on the assumption that the people liked to be fooled, and proved it. Mr. Nagel, an excellent actor, proceeded on the assumption that they don't like to be fooled, but he hasn't proved it yet. If his purpose was to prove to a distressed nation that their favorite movie stars' really aren't overpaid after all, he succeeded If his purpose was to make certain fellow actors more popular by depicting them as not much better off than the people who gush over them, he failed.

Publicity men have been adding a few extra ciphers on salary figures too long and with too much success to be convinced by any off-hand demonstration, however good the motives behind it, that the illusion of wealth they have built up has not been a favorable factor at the box-office Money talks with a strange persuasiveness, the fluffy blonde who can command $10,000 a week for her services must be good, reasons the potential theater attendant, so he pays his money and goes in to see her latest picture.

Most important of all, Mr. Nagel overlooked the fact that the public not only likes to be fooled, but likes to fool itself. Not every one by any means really took those big salary figures seriously, but it was fun to speculate on them just the same. It was harmless fun—the kind that comes from believing somebody is in clover, even though so many others have to put up with plain grass. Misery loves company, but it prefers moving picture stars to keep up an appearance of gilt and tassels.

The interstate commerce commission has ruled that the Pullman company can not make an extra charge when two persons occupy the same berth, the proposed charge having been twenty per cent. of the lower berth fare, save in the cases of children under twelve, who were to have been excepted. And thus a clever little plan on the part of the Pullman people to hold up the public for something like $750,000 extra, annually, has gone a glimmering.

The Job Drive.

Had the local job drive been concluded at the close of the third day, the total of 40 184 hours of employment attained could not have been classified as other than an achievement The drive will be continued, however, to reach the 50,000-hour goal set.

The spirit manifested by those engaged in the drive is worthy of the highest commendation. They have conducted their campaign in the right way. They have interested citizens in the drive without tiring them, and the result of the diplomatic methods employed has been the creating of a city-wide spirit of cooperation.

Without knowing at the time of this writing what the figures are, it is fairly safe to figure that the goal of 50,000 hours of employment set will be attained

Congratulations are due to originators of the drive, those engaged in it and those who will reap benefit from it.

Editorial Opinion.

GENEVA.

On March 19 the disarmament conference will go into adjournment for a period of fifteen days over the Easter holidays. Its work for the past three weeks has been confined to the committee phase, with technical detail absorbing the bulk of delegates' thought and energy Five key branches of Geneva's problem are under consideration in committees whose names designate their respective tasks political, military, naval, aviation and budgetary

The sub committees in each case have been transferred those multifarious details, mostly technical in character, with which the disarmament problem bristles. In these subordinate bodies the experts are having their innings—the soldiers, the sailors and the aviators whose highly-specialized knowledge justifies their presence and their need at Geneva.

No doubt objections can be made by technical experts," said Viscount Cecil at Geneva the other day, adding: "If a technical expert can not make objections, he can make nothing." That is the view of the disarmament idealist. But experts, who probably do not object to being called idealists, are vital in these incalculable days. Any scheme of disarmament negotiated without expert military and naval advice would be the last thing this country would or could afford to accept.

It is too early to predict what the outcome of the Geneva conference is going to be. Its final findings are not expected before the beginning of summer. But there is already a concurrence of view in virtually all conference quarters that the result will be positive and not negative, that from the months of deliberation a convention of some kind will result.

Perhaps—indeed, almost certainly—it will be a convention that falls short of the far-reaching hope of men and women who would have a Rome built in a day, the millennium by special delivery. If there emerges from Geneva an agreement to ban chemical and bacteriological warfare, the proposal upon which there has been a maximum of agreement, a concrete and constructive step will have been achieved. It will be a step possibly of even greater psychological value than of practical utility, for it will register advance, not retreat, in the tedious march upon which the nations have embarked Realists have always been conscious that disarmament progress would be a process marked by slow stages and by more than one conference.

One will not be wide of the mark in concluding that the Geneva political committee is the one in which the largest share of accomplishment will have to be recorded if achievement in purely military and naval directions is to be attained. "Security Committee" would have been a more graphic name for the body, upon the creation of which the French mainly insisted The French thesis is that unless through the League of Nations or otherwise France and other countries can be guaranteed security against aggression they will continue to rely on their arms. The contention is fundamental to any solution of Geneva's problems unless the French recede from it, of which there is little probability.

An essential to a solution, too, is Germany's demand for equality in the right to arm. The Reich is standing firm for the pledge which, the Germans insist, was given them when they consented in the treaty of Versailles to disarmament of their country. Germany is not asking today for authority to arm to the extent that France and other European countries are armed. If for no other reason, the Reich's finances would make such a thought ludicrous.

But the Germans insist they will be satisfied with nothing less than a convention which declares, in theory at least, that she stands as an equal among equals in respect of the privilege to maintain a national defense of her own ordering within the framework of internationally agreed limitation.

Many ripples will dimple the water of Lake Geneva before the French and German political thesis are reconciled or disposed of.—Washington Star, March 16.

Dinner Stories.

"Have you changed your attitude on prohibition?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "I'm in favor of light wines and beer just as I always was."

"You are not saying much on the subject."

"I have about decided that I have said enough. The public looks like an old-time patron of the bar who made the waiter recite his entire list of beverages, then, out of deference to home opinion, ordered a drink of water."

"Did that annoy the waiter?"

"Not at all. He obeyed private instructions and served gin. Appearances were preserved and everybody was satisfied."

Is Baby's Mouth Sore?

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A careless mother in her efforts to cleanse her baby's mouth may do great injury to the lining membrane. This mucous membrane is very sensitive to irritation and prone to infections, and on this account the use of unclean nipples for bottle-fed babies is most dangerous.

Today I wish to tell you about several diseases of the mouth. The first is "stomatitis"

This is characterized by a redness of the mucous membrane. The saliva is increased in amount, and may be so acrid as to irritate the skin around the mouth. The child is restless and fretful, sometimes refusing to nurse

Cleanliness in all the utensils used in baby's feeding is important. There must be great care of the rubber nipples and proper cleansing of the mother's breast. At the first sign of digestive disturbance, efforts should be made to correct it.

"Aphthous stomatitis' is another ailment. Its symptoms are rather like those of the simple variety, but small elevated spots also appear, and these soon break down into shallow ulcers. They appear in successive crops on the inner border of the cheeks and on the tongue. This disease usually lasts a week or ten days. Some digestive disturbance is probably the exciting cause, and this must be corrected before a cure can be effected

"Ulcerative stomatitis" is yet another type of sore mouth in children. It is rare in babies, but common between the ages 3 and 10 years. Unclean surroundings and overcrowding are factors. The trouble usually begins on the gums at the base of the teeth. Untreated, the disease goes on to deep ulceration sometimes penetrating even into the bone

Under medical treatment, even severe cases may recover. The giving of tonics as well as local treatment, is imperative, and better living quarters must be provided.

"Thrush" is another form of stomatitis This is caused by a germ. Small, white, opaque patches, resembling curds of milk, are seen on the mucous lining of the mouth If the trouble is untreated, these join together to form a membrane. When an attempt is made to remove this, the surface of the mouth underneath is found to be raw and abraded Usually there are symptoms of digestive disorder. Sometimes this disease extends to the throat, and even into the digestive tract

Treatment of every form of sore mouth should be directed by a physician. With proper attention, recovery in previously healthy children takes place usually in a week or ten days. The strictest cleanliness must be observed, or the patient may reinfect itself.

All these troubles, you see, can be traced to the lack of perfect cleanliness. When once the mother has learned the importance of this factor in her baby's welfare, she will be glad to give it attention.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

M B. Q.—What causes a patient to feel very restless at night? I sleep well but seem to jump around and kick a great deal.

A.—This is probably due to a nervous condition. Over-tiredness might also be a factor. Get plenty of fresh air every day and keep the system clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question - Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Birthplace of Greek Culture.

BY TEMPLE MANNING

Usually when a stop at Athens is arranged as part of the traveler's itinerary, there is a frantic unearthing of Greek histories and books dealing with mythology and a hurried study of these deep subjects usually results in a jumbled mass of misinformation. But for the man and woman familiar with the classics a walk in Athens is like coming home, like meeting people and sights with which one has been long familiar. But even those who have the haziest idea of Greek history are spellbound when they view the glorious ruins of the Acropolis softened with the scars of time hidden under the silver rays of the moon.

As the electric railway that connects Athens with Phaleron bay, where large ships anchor, nears the town, a few detached ruins of the Acropolis come to view and the marvelous, dominant position of the Acropolis becomes apparent First to be seen is the Arch of Hadrien and then the fifteen remaining marble columns of the Olympeion—the temple of the Olympian Zeus, erected about 530 B. C. Originally there were 104 Corinthian columns, each fifty six feet high and five feet in diameter

Next year the Olympic games are to be held in California and to all who have seen it this event will bring back thoughts of the original Stadium of Stadion, situated just the other side of the brook of Illissis. Here is the scene of the first Panathenic games for the Greeks worshipped muscle and speed as well as brain and culture. The wonderful structure was planned by Lycurgus in 330 B. C. The position is ideal, a natural amphitheater surrounded by verdant hills Some 450 years later Herodus Atticus added tiers of seats of marble. The actual course of the competitive arena was 584 feet. It was divided by goals, of which two are still standing There were accommodations for 56,000 spectators.

It was in 1896 that a wealthy Greek living in Alexandria decided that something ought to be done to restore the Stadion to something of its original form and uses. And so he furnished the funds necessary for its restoration and rehabilitation to something of its former grandeur The restoration was completed in 1906 and the first International Olympic games were held there A statue of the benefactor stands at the entrance of the restored stadium

Of course the highlight of the Acropolis is the Parthenon, which was in a splendid state of preservation, after 21 centuries, until, it was partially destroyed by the Venetians in a war against the Turks who held Athens at the time and used the priceless Parthenon as a powder magazine. The entire central portion of the building was destroyed, but, despite this, travelers artists and just ordinary folk all agree that the Parthenon is the most majestic, glorious and impressive ruin in the world. Whether seen by day or night, its grandeur is still overpowering.

The Parthenon was built in 447 B. C. under the supervision of Pericles. Early in the sixth century before Christ, a large temple was in process of erection on the site. The architects of the Parthenon were Iktinos and Kallikrates, and every schoolboy has learned that Phidias and his pupils furnished the outside sculptures The decorations, none of which have ever been equalled, included fifty life-sized statues, a frieze 524 feet in length, ninety-eight columns and a forty-three-foot high statue of Athena in gold and ivory. And the whole work of building and decoration took but ten years

The Parthenon has been used as an Athenian shrine, as a Christian church and as a Turkish mosque, and all religions have left their mark on it There are medallions, still partly visible, representing medieval paintings of the saint, and a stairway leads to what was once a minaret where the faithful were called to prayer. And now it is a shrine, sacred to the golden past of ancient Greece its beauty still all compelling

The Inside Story of Brown's Raid.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

While Jay Cooke was at Gibraltar island in the autumn of 1865, he had among other guests two men who were widely known in those times. One of them was Salmon P Chase, twice governor of Ohio, twice senator from this state, wartime secretary of the treasury, and who at that time was chief justice of the United States. The other was Captain John Brown, son of the anti-slavery crusader.

Chase was a frequent guest of Cooke, and it was to see the former governor that the younger Brown visited the island. The record does not disclose where he came from or how long he stayed, but during the visit he revealed the program the elder John Brown had in mind when he seized Harper's Ferry, only to pay for it with his life.

Jay Cook set down the story told by his guest in his journal. Under the date of Thursday, October 5, 1865 it reads as follows

"Fishing, sailing and grape eating until the dinner hour. Captain John Brown, son of the old John Brown, of Harper's Ferry memory, came over to see Chase and dined with us He gave us the secret history of that famous raid, and related many things not known outside his family.

"It appears that for twenty years his father and sons had meditated an attack on slavery. Their plot culminated prematurely, and ended disastrously with the death of the father.

"Their design was to occupy the Dismal swamp and several points in the mountains from whence they and their followers intended to make excursions in order to distract and terrorize the slaveholders, and render slaving unprofitable in Virginia and perhaps other states.

"They had arranged with many fugitive slaves in Canada to join them, and expected to gather many thousands of followers whose work as predatory bands would annoy and ruin the slave-holders.'"

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, March 19—They found out I'm the wrong bird to toss a birthday surprise party. At my age, I'm for celebrating birthdays like a rattlesnake. Add another button and there you are! I was preparing to mop up a Sunday night supper of cold biscuits and pear juice when the surprisers popped in

Any time they drop in on me they can expect to share a big fat blush. And they took this one standing. I had finished my chore and was window gazing into the beauty of a New York night when the door of my cage suddenly opened and in they rushed, all merry and bright.

There I stood in 1902 house slippers with three manholes for corns, seat-sprung pajamas, hair like last year's birdnest and face spotted up like a hen house window. For no reason whatever, I took on one of those set mechanical smiles I couldn't get off all evening.

Twice I sneaked off to the bathroom to relax, but the expression had jelled. The idiotic grin would not come off. Now and then I rub my hand over my face quickly and try to look sour. No use. The Cheshire cat effect was there to stay. I just kept smiling through.

So here they are and they can entertain themselves. They couldn't think up a basket party. Not this bunch. Not only spoil my evening, but I must feed them. Hungry little mouths to feed! Well, how would you like some of our mildewed dog biscuits? Or pate de fois gras that went limburger?

So you are expecting fancy things to drink! Cocktails, vintage Chablis and rare brandy. Then kick a few holes in the piano, sear cigaret scars in the carpet and shake down a few pictures. Well, get a load of this—you drink hydrant water and perfectly adore it.

The ladies would collect in the bedroom, as I can't go in and slip on presentable clothes. And they'll have their big laugh over the discarded sock I left on the dressing table To say nothing of the whatyoucallems spread over the back of the chair.

I know this crowd. If I went in there, they'd heap those unmentionables in the middle of the room and play Ring-around-the-Rosie Just a lot of children. Yeah? Two are grandparents. And ripe for the ether cone And one used to take Lincoln to school.

I might know Verne Porter would want to use the telephone. He just thought of a dear old pal in Phoenix. My big surprise party comes the first of the month. Old fiddle face with an arm up to the elbow in my box of candy, wants to know if I have gasoline for his lighter. He just ran out. Of gasoline, I mean. He'll be with us all evening don't worry. He'll be wanting me to skip to the corner for his early edition about midnight And Howard Acton may as well quit fingering that crystal ash tray so furtively. That's the way I got it.

Look! Frank Mason's cousin from Amityville wonders if any one has seen the disappearing gold fish trick and he's using the Rockwood vase and my fish for props. I wonder if he knows I'm all tuned up to show my eighteen karat bawling out trick with the kick in the pants finale if anything happens to that vase. Bob Garland has a gleam in his eye. He'll be chording on the piano soon. If Bill Hamilton starts singing the program is under way When I want a quartet I'll hire one. And they come up the back way. The lady with Harry Silvey feels an audition coming on, too. She's off in a corner mi, mi, mi, mi-ing. Keep on and I'll yell a little opera myself.

What's ailing the sad-eyed Apollo in the gates-ajar collar? He's all to himself admiring his nails. A bit sulky. I'll talk to him. We'll have no moods at this party. He doesn't feel well. For his memoirs: "On my visit to 'The Great McIntyre' I found myself suffering from a touch of the vapours." Let him have his dizzy spell, that's the only way he'll get dizzy this evening.

* * *

They're in a huddle now trying to think up a new game. Henry Sell knows one he picked up in Bermuda. All he needs is a soup tureen. He might as well ask for a live peacock. There's a lull. The party's going haywire. Ah, hoof-beats in the offing. Clippity-clap, clippity-clap' Everything is simply dandy. The party is saved. Bob Brinkerhoff is going to recite.

To Help the Unemployed.

BY FREDERICK KUH

Berlin, March 19—U.P.—A new scheme, calculated to provide work for 350,000 jobless without incurring any of the disadvantages attendant upon the usual public work schemes, has been elaborated by Emil Lederer, professor of economics at the Berlin university

Lederer's plans foresees that idle plants be turned over to groups of jobless, who would produce such goods as are most badly needed by the unemployed, such as coal, shoes, clothing, underwear, stockings, household articles. The owners would not receive any compensation except bonds which, however, would begin to bear interest in two years.

The jobless finding work in the plants would continue to draw their doles, but would not receive wages. However, work under such conditions would be attractive because the goods produced under the scheme would be distributed among those producing them. It is obvious, however, that the jobless shoe factory workers occuping an idle shoe plant would be able to turn out many more shoes than they could use. The surplus would be distributed among other jobless free of charge.

Lederer contends this is the only workable method whereby jobless can be taken from the street and back into the factories If rent and wages were to be paid, the costs would be so high that no capital could be found to finance the scheme. If, on the other hand, the products were to be sold, others would be thrown out of work. Therefore, there is nothing to be done but to produce the goods without earning wages and distribute them free Provision should be made against reselling goods obtained under the scheme.

The only costs would be for raw materials and administration.

Lederer estimated the costs at 4- milliard marks yearly—a sum which could be raised even in the present tense financial situation. The value of the goods produced would be about 140,000,000 marks.

While this plan has been hailed by some observers as the first practical suggestion for helping all unemployed to a certain extent, objections also have arisen. For instance, some critics say Lederer is too optimistic in estimating the costs of his scheme; fear is expressed, too, that the additional amount of merchandise turned out under the project would disturb the equilibrium of the market. It has been recognized generally, however, that the plan would have a very good psychological effect if it could be put into practice.

There's Fooling and Fooling.

The Chinese are said to have "fooled" the Japs by their quiet retreat. That's the kind of surprise party Tokyo would like every day —Boston Herald.

Galion High May Queen

GEORGIA MACKEY

GALION, March 19 — Miss Georgia Mackey, who has selected to reign as "Queen of the May" for the May day festivities to be held on the afternoon of May 6 at Heise park, has an active part in extra-curriculum activities of Galion High school.

She is athletically inclined and is president of the Girl's Athletic association. Miss Mackey is also a member of the Girl Reserve cabinet; a member of the Spy staff which edits the senior year book; secretary of the Spanish club; a member of the high school chorus and of Eleanor Morgan-Townsend's glee club. Miss Mackey had one of the principal parts in the operetta, "All at Sea," which was presented recently by the high school chorus.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, March 20

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of much that is secret, subtle and possibly sinister unless extreme precaution be taken to avoid hidden traps, intrigue and conspiracies. There may be duplicity, fraud and unfriendly attacks where least expected, unless unusual alertness be exercised. Complete discretion in all affairs is recommended. An element of mystery prevails.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of many perplexities, with mysterious disturbances springing from secret and unsuspected sources. Beware intrigues and underhand agreements. With discretion and precaution there is hope of averting such menaces. A child born on this day should be inclined to stratagem, intrigue and diplomacy, having a studious and introspective mind, possibly taking pleasure in occult study or psychic investigation.

For Monday, March 21

MONDAY'S astrological forecast accents the social, domestic, romantic and artistic activities, with much stirring in the realms of pleasure and pastime. In more workaday affairs there is danger of friction, violence and turbulence, which may prove disastrous unless a firm grip be kept on tongue and temper. With personal control there may be profit and pleasant relations generally.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of much pleasure and social or romantic activities, but with hostility, enmity and violence, unless a firm control be kept on tongue and temper. Impetuosity, rashness and headlong action may precipitate the most unhappy conditions, offsetting the pleasant auguries.

A child born on this day may be disposed to be reckless, rash, turbulent and violent, unless given early discipline. However, it may have friendly and happy traits and should marry well and prosper.

Hand Caught in Saw.

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 19—Napoleon Bowen of southwest of this city caught his left hand in a buzz saw Thursday afternoon at the M. E. Kear home. The fingers of his hand were badly lacerated and it was found necessary to amputate the middle and little finger at the second knuckle joint.

Two Hurt in Falls.

MARYSVILLE, March 19—Two Marysville residents suffered fractured bones in accidents. William Corridan, employed by the state highway department, fell out of a tree and fractured his right arm at the wrist and Mrs. George Fox, a nurse, fell upon a curbstone and fractured her left arm at the wrist.

Sent to Workhouse.

MARYSVILLE, March 19—Doyl Vanest, 22, living on a farm east of Richwood, pleaded guilty before Magistrate William Sloop to a charge of beating his 10-months' old baby and was sentenced to the Columbus workhouse for six months. His wife filed the affidavit against him.

New Trial Date Set.

BUCYRUS, March 19—Prosecutor J. D. Sears today announced that a second trial in the cases of Dr. O. R. Kackley of Galion and Cletus Sehl of near Crestline, will be heard in common pleas court June 21. Dr. Kackley and Sehl are at liberty under bond, after a jury failed to agree on a verdict in the first trial on charges of producing an abortion.

BRITISH AERIAL ROUTES GROW

Planes Flew Over Million and Half Miles in 1931.

By United Press

LONDON — Airplanes of the British Imperial Airways fleet, covering continental and dominion services, flew 1,510,867 miles in 1931.

Statistics also show that in that period the machines carried 30,581 passengers and 1,664,970 pounds of mails and freight. The mileage was an increase of 24 per cent over that flown in 1930, while the number of passengers carrried represented an increase of 31 per cent.

The year was also notable for the introduction of 11 of the world's largest and most luxurious passenger carrying planes on the cross-Channel, Mediterranean and Indian services. Eight four-engined, 40-seater, 2,200 horsepower biplanes were placed in commission on the London-Paris and Cairo-Karachi routes. Three giant flying boats of similar power superseded older and smaller craft in the Mediterranean. The latter machines, fully loaded, weigh 14 tons.

During the year, orders were placed for a fleet of eight high-speed monoplanes for use on the newly inaugurated London-Cape Town service, when it is extended to the carrying of passengers in a few weeks time.

In the summer of 1931 the England-India air mail, which, when inaugurated in 1929, operated on a schedule of seven and a quarter days, was speeded up to five days and two hours for the summer schedule and six days for the winter time-table.

Experimental flights were also carried out, with a view to the establishment of a regular weekly air mail service between England and Australia.

Imperial Airways officials also held preliminary discussions with officials of the Pan-American Airways and the French Aeropostale company, with a view to the possibility of operating an air mail between Europe and North America, via the Azores and Bermuda, as soon as technical and other progress may permit.

MAN FOUND DEAD AT UPPER SANDUSKY

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 19 — Ferdinand Schnitzler, 78, was found dead in his bed Friday morning at his home here. It is believed that he died early Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Rhodebeaver, who reside next door to the Schnitzler home, became alarmed when no one was seen about the place and investigated Friday morning. Coroner L. W. Naus was called and pronounced death due to heart trouble.

Mr. Schnitzler was born in Odenheim, Germany. He came to this country when a young man and settled in Kentucky, where he resided until about 14 years ago when he came to this city. He followed the occupation of gardener. He is survived by two sons who reside near Waynesburg, Ken.

Just Things

—BY EDNA S. DUTTON—

Using the Moments

If one really were ambitious and filled with a burning urge to press on, surmount the rocky heights, much could be accomplished in the midday lunch hour. It would be an easy matter to get some enlightening information from books in the city library and incidentally glean a few trite facts from the array of magazines available; one might, with comfort, walk a mile and gain that school girl complexion and lose a few excess pounds; if one were a nature lover there would be countless birds and flowers to discover and one might even break forth with rhymes and riddles by the side of the babbling brook. Not that we have any intention of deserting our custom of parking at the hash board and settling the big problems of the day just the same as always and neither are we urging you to forsake your pet scheme for whiling away the 60 per, it's just merely a little hint of what we think could be done if etc., etc., etc., and so on or in other words, running other folks business.

Old Houses

To us there is something, oh, so pathetic about those stark looking, old and rather tumbled-down houses which are to be seen so often standing beside or at the rear of a spic and span new home. Never have we seen one that seems to look even the least bit apologetic about the whole thing, rather they seem to be crumbling in something of a dying gladiator style and some even have an air of fairly flaunting their downfall to a critical, motorized public. Perhaps it's sentiment and maybe it's a mercenary motive that keeps them standing until the last nail falls but surely there is some kind and half-way human way of putting them out of their misery.

One Way Out

EVERYONE has his or her own way of solving the "depression" problem and we feel our guess is as good as fifty million others. We think the looking glass manufacfacturers might help a little. Why not make all the looking glasses show us up with the corners of our mouths turned up at least half-way to our eyes and ourselves generally looking just about 99 and nine-tenths handsomer than we really are. It could be done for don't you recall how you stood for long moments before the mirrors in the funny house at the park laughing yourself limber at your exaggerated length and breadth and furnishing plenty of sub rosa comments for the rest of the rubbernecksrs?

Urges More Thinking.

By International News Service

UTICA, N. Y. — Dr. George B. Cutten, president of Colgate university, in a talk given here before the Citizens Forum asserted that the cause of the depression is that "people don't care and don't think." "That people don't care is evident from the fact that great numbers do not exercise the right to vote no matter what the question while very few think," the president said. "Until people can be educated to use their brains chances for a change in conditions are remote."

THREE-YEAR SWIM

By International News Service

ROCKAWAY, Ore—Glass balls from Japanese fish nets have been picked up here on the beach after drifting across the Pacific. The find is the first of the two month period in which these tiny voyagers can be found. It is said that the ocean current journey from the Orient to the American coast takes three years.

A FAMILY SCHOOL

By International News Service

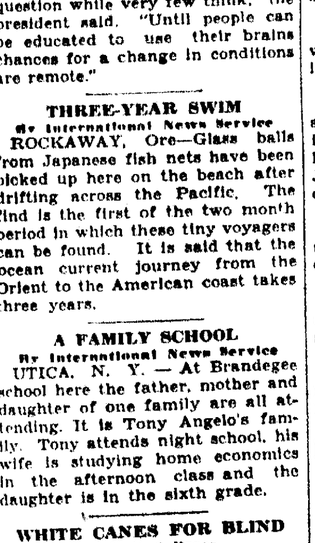
UTICA, N. Y. — At Brandegee school here the father, mother and daughter of one family are all attending. It is Tony Angelo's family. Tony attends night school, his wife is studying home economics in the afternoon class and the daughter is in the sixth grade.

WHITE CANES FOR BLIND

By United Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—A movement to have every blind man and woman in the country equipped with enameled white canes is being supported by Dr. W. C. Calkins, president of the Sighted and Sightless Progressive association. The experiment is being tried here with success.

'TAXI DANCER' BRIDE



Another instance of Cupid leaping social barriers was recently disclosed when the marriage of Allan P. Carlisle, son of Jay F. Carlisle, millionaire broker of New York, to Romaine Fleming (above), leaked out through young Carlisle's classmates at Harvard. Carlisle met Miss Fleming at a New York "taxi dance" hall, where she was a professional hostess. They were married last Christmas.

LA RUE COUPLE WED 50 YEARS WILL CELEBRATE

REV. AND MRS. W. P. LA RUE

REV. and Mrs. W. P. LaRue will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday, at their home near LaRue. Virtually all of their married life has been spent in Marion county in the vicinity of their present home.

A family dinner will be served at the noon hour and from 2 to 5 p. m. the couple will be at home to their friends.

Rev. Mr. LaRue was ordained a Methodist Episcopal minister in September of 1896. He never had a charge, but he has preached in practically all of the Methodist Episcopal churches in the county at one time or another and still is active in the affairs of the LaRue M. E. church.

On March 23, 1882, Maggie Bain and Rev. Mr. LaRue were united in marriage at the Bain home south of DeCliff. The bride's father, Rev. John Bain, performed the ceremony. Aside from the family, those who attended the wedding were Miss Minnie Hoover, James Church and C. S. Lippincott, all living in Marion.

Their three children are living. They are Dr. Clarence H. LaRue, pastor of the Monroe Street M. E. church of Toledo, Mrs. S. R. Kramp of near LaRue and Alvin B. LaRue of Marion. They have seven grandchildren.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

While Kitty Waits

"You have to hang on to your self-respect or you're no good," Dorcas said finally, consolingly.

"It's up to you to see it through. But you don't have to do anything tonight. Tomorrow'll be time enough. Let's go to bed. I'll fix you on the couch here."

Kitty sprang up and vigorously fell to work transforming the couch into a bed, folding covers, spreading sheets and blankets.

She tucked the covers about Dorcas' shoulders and the touch of the bed was warming and relaxing. Like a weary child Kitty crept further down under the soft blankets. The embers of the fire threw fingers of light across the darkened room. Through the half-open door of Dorcas' bedroom Kitty could see her moving back and forth. A blessed drowsiness overwhelmed her.

Tomorrow, they'd plan things and Dorcas would help her. But tonight Gar would come for her, surely.

It was closing time at Stratton's department store, three weeks later. Late last-minute shoppers had hurried in. The salesclerks were putting away the stock, working furiously against precious time.

Kitty in the sportswear department was hanging tweed ensembles with care. Her unaccustomed fingers made a slow work of it and the other girls, folding sweaters and blouses watched her and smiled slyly at one another. No. 12 was new and it was game to leave to a new one the job of hanging the suits away. It took longer.

A bright-eyed, blonde girl passing No. 12 hesitated. "Gee, don't bother so much. Lee's gone." She caught up an armful of the garments and swung them on to the bar of the case. "Rotten day, wasn't it?"

No. 12 knew Josie Price was trying to be friendly. Her tired face flushed gratefully. She agreed that it had been a rotten day.

"Bet you're dead," Josie went on. "My feet used to hurt as if they had boils on 'em. But you get used to it. I guess you get used to most anything unless it's Lee's tongue, after the ad bunch've taken her for a ride. Anyway, you don't have to mind that, do you? Didn't she take you into her office?"

Miss Lee, the head of the department, had taken No. 12 into her office while she checked over new stock. But just then No. 12 was too tired to wonder why Josie put the question, to read into it the jealousy with which each saleslerk observed any distinction paid to any one of them. No. 12 had not been at Stratton's long enough to lift her eyes toward the glamorous position of assistant buyer.

"Why, yes, she did," she answered tiredly.

"Oh, well, she's taken us all in, one time or another."

They took their wraps from their lockers. Josie jammed a tight little red hat down over her head, arranged crescents and blond hair at each temple, applied powder to her nose and a daub of scarlet to her lips. She drew her coat tightly about her thin hips, holding it there with crossed arms.

"Taking the street car home?" Her eyes were pointed with curiosity.

"No. I walk home."

"Well, by by, Miss Brandon. See you tomorrow."

"Good night, Miss Price."

"Oh, make it Josie!" the friendly Josie called over a hunched shoulder.

Stratton's knew No. 12 as Katherine Brandon.

As she walked out into the chilled dusk, Kitty felt a little cheered by Josie's advances. Until today the girls in her department had left her alone. Her own fault, of course—she'd wanted to be friendly, but in her awkwardness she'd felt shy, and probably they'd taken that for standoffishness.

Josie was a leading spirit in the sportswear department. She was goodnatured, sympathetic and ready with a joke, mimicked her customers when they departed, bantered with the floormen. Every morning she regaled her associates with her experiences of the evening before. Dates and boy-friends made the substance of her easy chatter. She was alert in her work, approaching shoppers with an attentiveness that held them and more often than not sold something to them. This and the fact that she had been in Stratton's for four years, beginning at bundle desk, gave her an unofficial seniority over the others. Kitty had recognized that seniority.

Thinking of Josie, she walked swiftly, liking the touch of the cool air against her tired face. Like Josie and the hundreds of others who had left Stratton's before her, she felt a sense of lightness with the day behind her. At this hour even the pain in her heart lifted a little.

Most of all she walked swiftly because she was going back to Ketchum street and Ketchum street meant to Dorcas' room with its lamplight and its fire—Dorcas herself.

It had been three weeks since that night David had taken her to Dorcas, infinitely longer when she measured it in heartache. Gar had not tried to find her. He must know where she was—Pound knew and must have told him.

Dorcas had taken her to Stratton's. Dorcas knew the head of the personnel there. The wages Stratton's paid her gave her a meager independence. She was living in a small room on the same floor as Dorcas' apartment.

Kitty knew now that Dorcas owned the old house on Ketchum street. She knew that Mrs. Gentle to whom she paid her week's rent only acted as Dorcas' agent. David had told her about Mrs. Gentle. One day Dorcas had found her, destitute, evicted with her two children from a basement apartment in the block and had taken her in. "She can get on if some one just gives her a hand," David had quoted Dorcas as saying. And Mrs. Gentle, installed in the big kitchen of the old house, sleeping in what once had been the diningroom, had gotton on, just as Emil Schelling was getting on, Kitty herself.

Kitty had met others in Dorcas' apartment, to whom she knew Dorcas had given a hand. Young Mark Quinn who worked in a garage and went to art classes at night. Leah Moore, a lawyer, 30, cynical, brilliant of intellect, decrying sentiment, sneering at any ideals and yet somehow softening to humanness after an evening around Dorcas' fire; Max Adler, a sensitive-faced, dark-browed Jew, shouting communism yet arrogant himself. He was a violinist. It was Dorcas who had secured for him a place in the Palace theater orchestra. Perhaps Dorcas had helped them all, in one way or another, to regain their selfrespect. In the ups and downs of everything each of them was doing, Dorcas showed a deep interest. But she would not tolerate whining. "Oh, stand up," she'd cry impatiently at such times.

Kitty had heard her berate David. "You haven't done a bit of work today. I can tell by the hang of your head. Are you going to be content all your life with a column of dribble for the Times? Well, if you are, go on home." And David had gone, his face angry, slamming the door behind him.

Kitty had come to know, with some excitement, that David's work was the writing of a novel. But neither he nor Dorcas talked about it except, now and then, to exchange some pertinent comment concerning it, or a question and a brief answer, or often, on Dorcas' part, a sharp rebuke. It seemed to be something between the two of them and Kitty sensed that Dorcas cared a great deal about it; she'd seen the look in her eyes when David went out, slamming the door behind him, a sorry, tender look.

Kitty, even in her most intimate moments with Dorcas never touched on her own discouragement. She could tell David how frightfully tired she got. And with David she could talk of Gar. David hadn't said anything about self-respect, David's sympathy was different from Dorcas.'

Four blocks from Stratton's was the Times building. As Kitty reached it David stepped from the wide entrance way and joined her, just as he met her nearly every evening, making the encounter seem to happen without any planning. And always, on the instant of seeing him, tall and lanky, a little shabby, his hat pulled down over his eyes, Kitty felt a little rush of gladness.

"Well, how did it go today?"

"Oh, better." Her eyes clung to David's face. She slipped her hand through his arm.

"David, did you see him today? Hear anything?"

To Be Continued.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Finds That Curing Marion of Her Infatuation for Owen Involves Anxiety.

I TOOK Lillian with me for my call upon Mrs. Arlen and her daughter. She, with the others, had but just returned from the shore cottage, to which she and Harry had taken the young people after Lee Chow's collapse, and though I had compunctions about asking her to go with me, my need of her outweighed consideration for her.

"I can't face those two by myself," I told her, when we were driving away from the farmhouse.

How Does the Scheme Go?

"That's as good an excuse as any," she said with a grin. "I don't blame you at that. I'd sooner sit by the side of a marsh with the mosquitoes active than listen to Avis rehashing her patter. But that isn't what's eating you, and you know it. You're simply dying of curiosity to know how Mary's scheme for curing Marion is coming on, and you've picked on me as the likeliest person to cough up the truth. 'Fess up, now. Ain't I the slick little deducer?"

"Take my side combs, also my wrist watch," I told her, laughing, "but begin your tale promptly. I'll drive slowly, so you'll be finished by the time we reach the hotel."

"I wonder if we'll find Noel there?" she said. "He certainly has been conspicuous by his absence while we were at the shore. Only came over one evening, and then kept very much in the background."

The Saga of the Scheme

"I hope he isn't taking this little comedy of Mary's seriously," I said worriedly.

"Who ever heard of a young lover taking anything in any other way than seriously?" she retorted. "I'm only thankful that he hasn't sent exploding shrapnel in all directions. But I think I would rather have him stage anything except a return to the place where the Arlen angler is baiting her hooks. Well, thank all the little josses, he won't have to stand it much longer."

There was jubilance in her voice, and with my left hand guiding the wheel I put my right on her arm imperatively.

"I shall shake and slap in another minute if you don't tell me what has happened," I said.

"Also scream and bite," she added in a matter-of-fact, meditative tone that set me to laughing.

Before I had finished, she had plunged into the saga of Mary's scheme to cure Marion of her school-girlish infatuation, and I was glad that the road was practically deserted, so focused was my attention upon what she was saying.

Poor Bill!

"Of course, it's all up in the air yet," she said. "There hasn't been any showdown, and someway I have the impression that the hardest thing of all to accomplish will be placating Ronald when this is all over. He's played up to Mary beautifully, and I don't think one of the youngsters suspects that he isn't quite crazy about her. They all think Marion would be wearing a nice little bouquet of willow by this time if it weren't for Bill. That poor lad! Tarkington's William Sylvanus Baxter had nothing on him when he was seventeen."

"Which poor lad? Ronald or Bill?" I asked her slyly.

"What? Be your age and never mind my mixed antecedents," she retorted. "I mean Bill, of course. I am afraid he's the one who's going to see to it that even when Marion finds out about the comedy she still gives Bill the best of it, at least so far as this crowd can see. He'll be going back to school before the rest anyway, and I won't have him humiliated."

"Neither will I." My voice was savage for an instant, for Dicky's oldest nephew has endeared himself to me. Then I made a swift calculation.

Is the Cure Accomplished?

"The younger boys have to go back a full week before the others," I said. I won't give this dinner-dance until after they go, then there will be no chance of Bill's being hurt. Once in school, he'll be so busy that he won't have time to worry."

"Leave us hope," Lillian commented skeptically. "His devotion to Marion is something beautiful, and—pitiable. He's been in the seventh heaven ever since they came back from camp, however. Marion, determined not be a wall flower, has kept Bill in constant attendance, and he's simply delirious with joy."

"Poor lad!" For an instant my heart was hot against Marion, then I reflected that in this modern age it was useless to worry about adolescent affection. A subnormal or abnormal boy or girl—yes; but an upstanding, normal boy like Bill—if we could manage things so that there should be no blow to his pride, this emotional experience would probably be most beneficial to him.

Thus I salved by conscience, as I put a pertinent query to Lillian.

"Then you think that the scheme has worked, and that Marion's cure is accomplished?" I asked.—Copyright, 1932, Kings Features Syndicate, Inc.

K. S. BOLANDER WILL CONTINUE LECTURES

Karl S. Bolander of Worthington, formerly of this city, who has resigned as director of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts will continue his lectures on art and related subjects, he has announced. Mr. Bolander's resignation as director of the Columbus institute, dated March 10, was made public yesterday and becomes effective July 1. He expects to remain in Columbus but his plans will take him to Europe for some time.

He gave as his reason for resigning at this time the fact that it afforded him an opportunity to develop certain lines of work which he has been eager to carry on in a larger field for several years.

ASHLAND VICTOR IN AKRON EAST CLASH; NORTH STOPS STIVERS

Akron West and Pomeroy Also Come Through; Class B Games Fast.

BY JAMES L. RENICK
Associated Press Sports Writer
By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—Prognosticators who selected Akron West and Columbus North to meet in the final round of the state high school basketball tournament, are patting themselves on the back today.

For both West and North came through the first round with flying colors. However, each has one more opponent to dispose of before the long expected battle takes place—if it does.

West will take on Pomeroy, this afternoon and North will meet Ashland, a member at the North Central Ohio league, with the final contest between the winners slated for 9:30 o'clock tonight.

Class B Has Upsets

But those same predictors took it on the chin in the class B division, of the tournament as two of the pre-festival favorites fell by the wayside. Dayton fairmount and Stewart were expected to at least reach the semi-final round. Instead, both lost out by one point margins.

As it stands now Garrettsville and Castalia will meet at 1 p. m. and Sugar Creek and Ostrander clash at 2 o'clock. The championship contest in this division will be played at 8 p. m.

Thre were plenty of thrills in yesterday's contests, all of the games being hard-fought affairs. Dayton Stivers spotted North a 10 point lead, going into the final quarter and then pulled up until the final score read 31 to 29.

Akron West played under wraps most of the way and succeeded in trouncing Zanesville, 38 to 26. At no time did West have to show its full power. Pomeroy met unexpected opposition from Defiance but managed to eke out a 17 to 13 victory.

Ashland Beats East

In a rough and tumble game Ashland sent home Akron East by a score of 28 to 21. It was Ashland's game all the way.

The class B games were much harder fought, three of them being decided by one point margins.

Garrettsville had the easiest sailing, downing Roseford, 29 to 17, scoring almost as it pleased after getting away to a slow start. Castalia won from Dayton Fairmont, 24 to 23 and Sugar Creek eked out a 28 to 27 victory over Stewart in the last 55 seconds of play. In a see-saw battle that saw first one team in the lead and then the other, Ostrander won from North Canton, 30 to 29.

More than 7,000 persons witnessed the first round of play, setting a new attendance record for the opening day.

MANGIN GETS SHOT AT TENNIS CROWN

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—Gregory S. Mangin of Newark was given his frist chance at a national tennis title and a possible berth on the United States Davis cup team today.

The New Jersey star, playing the best tennis of his career, stacked up against Frank Shields of New York in the final round of the national indoor championships. Mangin entered the finals by whipping George Lott of Chicago, No. 2 in the national rankings yesterday.

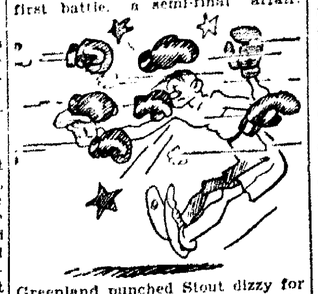
CHAMPS CROWNED IN FIGHT TOURNEY

Few Bouts Go Full Length in Amateur Fistic Warfare at Eagles' Hall.

While some 500 fans yelled in glee, eight new fight champions were crowned last night in the final matches of the Marion Golden Gloves boxing tournament at the Eagles' hall arena. Only three of the eight new champs can claim Marion as their home city, foreign fighters having clouted and banged their way to victory in five of the eight title conflicts.

Of the eight championship battles, only two went the scheduled four rounds. The others were cut short by technical or full fledged knockouts.

K. O. Stout and Don Greenland donned the padded mitts for the first battle, a semi-final affair.



Greenland punched Stout dizzy for the first few minutes of the fight and appeared well on the way to a shot at the title when Stout suddenly cut loose with a barrage of punches that rocked Greenland into dreamland in less time than it takes to tell about it. The knockout came in the second round.

Stout followed up his semi-final decision later in the evening by outpunching Joe Rathell to gain a decision, one of the two decision battles of the program. The victory over Rathell gives Stout the championship of the 138 pound division.

Hostetter Wins

Howard Hostetter and Paul Kappalo opposed each other in the next battle and Hostetter took the championship when Kappalo's seconds threw in the towel and ended the fight in the second frame. Hostetter tossed gloves at Kappalo in rapid fire fashion, punching him all over the arena before the bout was finally stopped. They fought at 115 pounds.

Bob Little of Upper Sandusky was scheduled to meet Frankie Blue in the semi-final of the 155 pound class but was unable to appear for the fight so Lyman Utter of Upper Sandusky was substituted. Utter collided with Blue in the first round in a rush from his corner, opening an artery over Blue's eye, causing such profuse bleeding that Blue was forced to forfeit the fight Utter automatically gained the championship when Ralph Barnhart, the scheduled championship opponent, failed to put in his appearance for the title battle.

K. O. Rinkert of Bucyrus copped another of the titles which went to Bucktown when he put Eddie Collins of Marion to sleep in the first round of warfare. Rinkert clipped Collins on the jaw with a terrific right to send him to the land of nod. They weighed in for the fight at 122 pounds.

Two Blows Enough

Harry Miller of Upper Sandusky, fighting at 134 pounds, made short work of Bob Smith of Marion. Miller landed a wallop to Smith's head as the latter came out of his corner for the opening round to put him down for a count. He no more than regained his feet than Miller put him down for keeps with another smash to the head. The fight lasted something like 30 seconds.

Art Amick and Mutt Kellogg battled their way through four rounds of warfare with the decision going to Amick. Kellogg took the first round and the rest went to Amick although the fighting was close most of the time. They fought at 145 pounds.

Byron Warfel of Upper Sandusky knocked out George Splawn of Marion in the second round of their scheduled battle at 163 pounds.

Harold Seber of Delaware made a game comeback in the battle for the 170-pound title to hang up a knockout win over "Toughie" Rowlands of Bucyrus. Rowland had all of the better of the battle as the first round started but Seber opened up and battered Rowland all over the ring until he finished him in the second stanza.

Louie Sprocco and Joe Caprino and LeRoy Danes and Harold Danes, all of Marion, appeared in a pair of exhibition two-round fights, both of the bouts ending in draw decisions.

WALLACE STOPPED BY SAMMY FULLER

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—The next big hurdle Sammy Fuller must clear in his march toward a lightweight title will come in the shape of a bout April 1, with Jack (Kid) Berg.

Fuller earned a shot at Berg by stopping Billy Wallace of Cleveland in the seventh round of a 10 round bout in Madison Square Garden last night. If the Boston youngster can get past Berg a match with the champion, Tony Canzoneri, may be arranged.

After an even first round, Fuller had the edge in the second and third sessions but Wallace came back strong to win the fourth and fifth, flooring Fuller in the fifth round.

Fuller rallied to win the sixth and in the seventh caught Wallace squarely with a right to the jaw. Wallace went down heavily and barely got to his feet at nine. He fell into the arms of Referee Jed Gahan who stopped the fight.

CAMBRIDGE VICTOR IN ROWING CLASSIC

By The Associated Press

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, Eng. March 19—For the ninth year in succession, Cambridge defeated Oxford in their annual duel.

After trailing Oxford for the first mile, Cambridge's superior weight began to tell. The light blues pulled ahead after a mile and a half of the hour-mile grind and held a lead of two and a half lengths after two miles.

Cambridge's margin, stretched to four lengths at Duke's Meadows, was a good six lengths as the light blues crossed the finish line.

Cambridge rowed the course of approximately four miles in 19 minutes, 11 seconds. The Cantabs' lead at the finish was officially placed at five lengths.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

IN the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—recreation baseball, at least in Marion.

Since the latest March cold spell became a thing of the past, one has difficulty in traversing more than a block of the city without someone suggesting it is about time to drag out the ball and glove and commence working the kinks out of the salary arm.

Not much has been definitely accomplished yet in the way of planning the coming softball season here. The March lion retarded things considerably when it broke in on the spell of unseasonably warm weather which has been the rule here most of the winter. Now that spring is just around the corner, along with prosperity perhaps, sports conversation is rapidly drifting to the approaching diamond campaign.

Recreation baseball has for the last several years been the biggest sports attraction in Marion. There is every indication that the 1932 season will take up right where the 1931 race left off. The city softball commission will probably have to make some eligibility concessions to permit certain industrial concerns to put their usual strong lineups in the field but these necessary concessions are not expected to be the cause of much argument.

Thirty-two teams competed last season in the four city leagues and there were probably not less than 20 more playing in independent competition. More than 50 teams in a city of 30,000 is not a bad figure. I doubt if there is any other city in the state which has a greater proportion of its citizens interested in softball than does Marion.

With the exception of the North Central Ohio tournament, in which the team is expected to compete, the Shovel Y-Indus has completed its 1931-32 basketball campaign and for the third successive season boasts of the best independent record in Marion and the surrounding area. A total of 18 victories were turned in against seven defeats. Not a bad record at all, considering the team played against major opposition in the majority of its contests.

Vic Gillis, elongated forward, again leads the scoring list of the club with a total of 308 points. This total does not come near matching his 464 tallies last year but his average per game is higher this season. The team has played 14 less games this season than last, which accounts for at least part of the drop in points scored.

The season's individual scoring record of the team follows:

Player	G.	F.	T.
V. Gillis	133	42	308
Roush	56	16	128

Training Camp Highlights

NEW ORLEANS, March 19—Lew Fonseca has gone on to the Chicago White Sox, but the Cleveland Indians still have faith in some words he spoke a year ago when he was a Tribesman.

Last year the Indians were woefully weak at the plate against New Orleans rookie pitchers. Fonseca told them they'd hit when they faced major league pitching, and they did. This spring their hitting again has been light, but they hope Fonseca's prediction still holds.

WEST PALM BEACH — With Walter Stewart the St. Louis Browns' stellar southpaw, in camp with his contract signed, and Rick Ferrell, first-string catcher, expected today the club's strength is gradually increasing.

The Chicago Cubs, with two victories over Portland, and shy six players who started the training season, came to Oakland today to open a two game set with the local Pacific Coast league club. The Cubs yesterday won a 9 to 5 decision over Portland.

SARASOTA—Myril Hoag, young New York Yankee outfielder, still is trying to figure out whether he was hero or "goat" in yesterday's game with Indianapolis. On the credit side Hoag could point to four singles in five times at bat. But on the other hand he lost one fly that went for three bases, fumbled a single for two extra bases, and stole second base when Arnda Jorgens already was occupying it.

CATHOLIC TOURNEY IN QUARTER FINALS

CHICAGO, March 19—Indians looked more and more like the final resting place of the 1932 national Catholic high school basketball championship today as the battle charged into the quarter-finals.

Of the eight survivors in the field, three of them hailed from Hoosier land and the trip stacked up as the real teams to beat. They were Catholic High of Washington, Cathedral of Indianapolis, and Central Catholic of Fort Wayne.

North Central Cage Meet Here To Draw Fast Teams

Basketball is almost ready to do a fadeout in Marion until the season of 1932-33 rolls around but before bowing out of the picture it will have one final fling and this last shot bids fair to eclipse anything produced here in a basketball way since the present season started last December. This one final flare up will come in the form of the second annual North Central Ohio Independent tournament at The Star auditorium.

Last season 29 teams took part in this tournament. As yet the number which will play this year is indefinite, the entry deadline not being due until 8 p. m. of Wednesday, March 23. The tournament will be played on March 24, 25 and 26.

The Shovel Y-Indus team is probably the only team of the city of Marion which will compete in the tourney. Several other teams from Marion county, including the Green Camp Baptists, are expected to enter. The Y-Indus has added several stars to its lineup, among them being Jack Ling, Harding High school's towering pivot man and John Pickerel, regular guard on the crack Harding team of the season just completed. It is possible the Y-Indus will play under different sponsorship but the lineup of the club will be much the same as the one which to date this year has won 18 out of 25 starts.

The Columbus Athletic club has already entered a team. The Lima Community Laundry, Lima Church of the Brethren, one of the best church teams in Lima, a team from Bluffton college, the Galena Independents, and Trout Confectioners of Columbus are all expected to send in entries before the deadline is reached. Several other cities are expected to be represented.

VERNON AND EDISON CLOSE CAGE SEASON

Eighth and Ninth Grade Teams Split Honors in Twin Bill.

Thomas A. Edison and Vernon Heights Junior High school basketball teams completed the 1931-32 court season Friday at the Edison gymnasium with a pair of games. The two games resulted in an even break for the two teams, Vernon Eighth chalking up a 16-9 victory while Edison Ninth was turning in a 22-15 win.

Both of the games were fast and personal fouls were numerous. Three players were ejected for four fouls.

The Vernon Ninth cagers led Edison in the first half of the game but faltered in the third and fourth periods and lost out to the West side combine coached by Donald Lee.

Vernon took the lead in the first period of the eighth grade contest and never relinquished the advantage.

MEENAN LOST

Northwestern Grid Star Ineligible on Account of Marriage.

By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., March 19—Ken Meenan, upon whom Coach Dick Hanley had planned as a member of the Northwestern backfield next fall, has married himself right out of Big Ten football.

Meenan yesterday was declared ineligible for football after having married Miss Jean Rogers, a Northwestern co-ed Monday. Both were suspended for the remainder of the school year, but will be eligible for readmission next fall.

Meenan last fall married Miss Helen Major of Evanston, but the marriage was annulled and he was permitted to remain in school, until he hauled off and got married again.

Don Zimmerman, Tulare halfback and pole vaulter, and Percy Barber, Columbia university discus thrower, prepped together at Mitchell, S. D., High school.

NICHOLS CAPTURES MIDDLEWEIGHT TOGA

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 19—George Nichols, swarthy, 23-year-old Italian from Buffalo, scaling just three pounds over the middleweight limit, today had become the National Boxing association's defender of the world light heavyweight championship.

A close decision victory over Davie Maier of Milwaukee, after 10 rounds of savage southpaw slugging last night put the 163-pound Nichols at the top of the 175-pound division and won him a diamond studded belt.

As far as the N. B. A. is concerned, Nichols has earned the title formerly owned by Maxie Rosenbloom of New York. Rosenbloom after winning the title in a New York elimination, was so backward about defending it that the N. B. A. declared the throne vacant and ordered an elimination contest of its own.

market was barely steady at the close, with a few issues off a point or so, including U. S. Steel, American Telephone, International Harvester, Utilities Power & Light "A," Santa Fe, Borden & Lambert.

Kreuger and Toll was the outstanding feature of the session. News from Stockholm that the management had requested suspension of trading brought a flurry of selling, and the issue dropped to a new low price of 1, and closed at 1¼, off ½.

The day's turnover in the stock market was around 800,000 shares.

The stock market held up relatively well, in the opinion of most brokerage quarters, in view of the slump in leading commodity markets following news of the farm board's plan to dispose of holdings abroad.

WHEAT PRICES DROP SHARPLY

Farm Board Announcement Causes Sudden Slump on Chicago Market.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, March 19—Wheat prices dropped sharply on the board of trade today on reports that the Liverpool market had been demoralized as a result of the statement yesterday of Secretary Hyde that the farm board would try to dispose of its vast holdings. Quotations opened from one to three cents down, the biggest drop being in the September option.

Purchase by shorts rallied September prices about 1½ cents after a bottom of 56¾ cents had been set. This minimum price was eight cents below the closing last Saturday. Corn, oats and rye also sold off somewhat in sympathy.

Stop loss orders were set off in the first rush of selling and there were wild scenes in the pits as many wheat holders tried to unload as the news spread that there had been demoralized selling in Liverpool as a result of Secretary Hyde's announcement. The farm board holdings, since 40,000,000 bushels have been set aside for the needy, still total upwards of 200,000,000 bushels.

George S. Milnor, president of the stabilization corporation, sailed for Europe this week, but said that he was merely on a vacation when asked if he were going to arrange for sales of farm board wheat.

In a general rush to sell, the Chicago wheat market swept to about 8 cents lower than the close a week ago. Bears urged that Washington government plans for disposing of surplus wheat abroad on credit would not increase consumer use, and would intensify commercial antagonism. One export house issued a statement that the Washington plan established a precedent that never before existed in the grain trade, which had always heretofore been on a cash basis.

Upturns from early price setbacks in wheat were attributed largely to unofficial assurance that proposals to sell wheat to Europe on credit would not go through. It was asserted that members of the farm board were opposed to such a program and that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had not at present the funds to advance. Rapid swings in quotations ensued after initial sharp 2 cents, but the volume of dealings became more moderate as the day progressed. Corn and oats weakened with wheat, and May corn touched within ¼ cent of the season's bottom price record.

Provisions sagged, influenced by setbacks both in hog values and in cereals.

After midsession, wheat was quoted 1 to 1⅝ under yesterday's finish and corn ¼-⅝ down.

The use of the metric system in Bolivia has been made compulsory by the government.

The Capelet Frock Is Smart.

PATTERN 2292.

Step-by-Step Instruction Diagrams Given with This Pattern.

Here's an adorable frock for parties, graduation or Sunday school and it may be made of silk or cotton and be equally lovely. We made the original in dotted swiss...all white and added a pert bow at the neck and a sash of orange grosgrain ribbon. It was really quite the loveliest dress imaginable. The raglan sleeves and the pleated skirt joined in scallops are new details.

Pattern 2292 is obtainable only in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, 16. Size 12 requires 2⅞ yards of 36-inch fabric, 3 yards of ribbon.

COUPON

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents. Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to the pattern department THE MARION STAR BUREAU, Pattern Fashion Syndicate, Inc., 243 West 17th St., New York City.

SPRING AND WINTER IN POLITICS

Forty-eight years is the wide span between the ages of Gilbert N. Haugen (left) of Iowa, and W. Carlton Mobley of Georgia, the oldest and youngest members of the United States house of representatives. Haugen, who will reach his 72rd milestone in April, has served many terms in congress, while Representative Mobley, just 25, is making his debut in politics in the lower house.

Kreuger and Toll was the outstanding feature of the session. News from Stockholm that the management had requested suspension of trading brought a flurry of selling, and the issue dropped to a new low price of 1, and closed at 1¼, off ½.

The day's turnover in the stock market was around 800,000 shares.

The stock market held up relatively well, in the opinion of most brokerage quarters, in view of the slump in leading commodity markets following news of the farm board's plan to dispose of holdings abroad.

WHEAT PRICES DROP SHARPLY

Farm Board Announcement Causes Sudden Slump on Chicago Market.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 19—Wheat prices dropped sharply on the board of trade today on reports that the Liverpool market had been demoralized as a result of the statement yesterday of Secretary Hyde that the farm board would try to dispose of its vast holdings. Quotations opened from one to three cents down, the biggest drop being in the September option.

Purchase by shorts rallied September prices about 1½ cents after a bottom of 56⅝ cents had been set. This minimum price was eight cents below the closing last Saturday. Corn, oats and rye also sold off somewhat in sympathy.

Stop loss orders were set off in the first rush of selling and there were wild scenes in the pits as many wheat holders tried to unload as the news spread that there had been demoralized selling in Liverpool as a result of Secretary Hyde's announcement. The farm board holdings, since 40,000,000 bushels have been set aside for the needy, still total upwards of 200,000,000 bushels.

George S. Milnor, president of the stabilization corporation, sailed for Europe this week, but said that he was merely on a vacation when asked if he were going to arrange for sales of farm board wheat.

In a general rush to sell, the Chicago wheat market swept to about 8 cents lower than the close a week ago. Bears urged that Washington government plans for disposing of surplus wheat abroad on credit would not increase consumer use, and would intensify commercial antagonism. One export house issued a statement that the Washington plan established a precedent that never before existed in the grain trade, which had always heretofore been on a cash basis.

Upturns from early price setbacks in wheat were attributed largely to unofficial assurance that proposals to sell wheat to Europe on credit would not go through. It was asserted that members of the farm board were opposed to such a program and that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had not at present the funds to advance. Rapid swings in quotations ensued after initial sharp 2 cents, but the volume of dealings became more moderate as the day progressed. Corn and oats weakened with wheat, and May corn touched within ⅛ cent of the season's bottom price record.

Provisions sagged, influenced by setbacks both in hog values and in cereals.

After midsession, wheat was quoted 1 to 1⅝ under yesterday's finish and corn ¼-⅝ down.

The use of the metric system in Bolivia has been made compulsory by the government.

PATTERN 2292.

Step-by-Step Instruction Diagrams Given with This Pattern.

Here's an adorable frock for parties, graduation or Sunday school and it may be made of silk or cotton and be equally lovely. We made the original in dotted swiss...all white...and added a pert bow at the neck and a sash of orange grosgrain ribbon. It was really quite the loveliest dress imaginable. The raglan sleeves and the pleated skirt joined in scallops are new details.

Pattern 2292 is obtainable only in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, 16. Size 12 requires 2¼ yards of 36-inch fabric, 3 yards of ribbon.

JOE BROWN IS SMALL TOWN HERO IN NEW FILM TO SHOW HERE

JOE E. BROWN

Joe E. Brown has followed his successful "Local Boy Makes Good," with "Fireman, Save My Child," which will show at the Ohio starting Sunday.

Joe E. has survived the Hollywood spree of cutting down expenses and has retained his star supremacy. His supporting cast for "Fireman, Save My Child" includes Evalyn Knapp, Lilian Bond, Guy Kibbee, Virginia Sale, Dickie Moore and Junior Coghlan.

The baseball team on which Joe E. plays in his role of the small town hero, are composed of famous collegiate, major and minor league players. Mike Donlin, one time slugger king of the New York Giants, acts as an umpire. Frank Shallenbach, ace pitcher in the Pacific Coast league, also has an important role. "Old Dan," last of the famous wheel horses in San Francisco's famous Mission District Fire department, makes another appearance in his old role.

SALLY EILERS

The feminine half of the James Dunn-Sally-Eilers team has the leading role in "Disorderly Conduct," which will show at the Palace Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The Palace will offer a double bill in the other half to be a Jack Holt thrill, "Behind the Mask."

Sally and her cowboy husband, Hoot Gibson, have a home in Beverly Hills but their week-end haven is a ranch at Saugus, Calif. Adjoining the ranch is an airplane landing field. Both are full-fledged pilots and have a plane of their own.

The cast of "Disorderly Conduct" lists such names as Spencer Tracy, El Brendel, Dickie Moore, Ralph Bellamy, Ralph Morgan and Allan Dinehart.

WIL ROGERS' PICTURE ON STATE DOUBLE BILL

Will Rogers' picture, "A Connecticut Yankee" will show at the State Sunday and Monday on a double bill with a Bob Steele western picture, "Near the Trail's End."

The Rogers picture is one of the "don't miss" shows of last year. The part is tailormade for Will and he has a great time in his big adventure as a noble knight of King Arthur's court. Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Albertson, William Farnum and Myrna Loy give him splendid support.

GEORGE O'BRIEN

"The Gay Caballero," which will be shown at the Marion Sunday through Tuesday, has in the cast George O'Brien, Victor McNaglen and Conchita Montenegro as principals. Linda Watkins has a minor role.

The picture was made from Tom Gill's novel of modern border life and romance. George O'Brien was the protege of Thomas Meighan when he was first breaking into pictures. He has used the same black horse, "Mike," in pictures for the last five years.

REBEKAH CIRCLE PLANS MEETING

Plans for an all-day meeting and potluck dinner April 1 at the I. O. O. F. hall were made when members of Wayside Loyal circle of Wayside Rose Rebekah lodge met yesterday with Mrs. Jennie Hagemann of Gurley avenue. Mrs. Osa Henney was the assisting hostess.

The afternoon was spent in knotting a comforter. Two contests were held, honors going to Mrs. Grace Cyders and Mrs. Earl Hazen. Mrs. Grace Randolph and Mrs. Ollie Shupp were consoled. A lunch was served in color schemes in keeping with St. Patrick's day and Easter.

Two Classes Meet.

The Live Wire and Friendship circle classes of Oakland Evangelical church met last night with Miss Ethel and Edgar Biersdorfer of Congress street. In short business meetings, the classes decided to hold separate meetings Friday night, April 15. The meeting opened with songs, "He Whispers His Love to Me" and "Beulah Land." Miss Estella Carter led a devotional service. Games were enjoyed in a social hour. Refreshments were served.

Individual scores of the shooters follow: Team No. 3: Bowles, 377 Rogers, 348, Kohler, 297, Hartley, 301, Marks, 356 and Postle, 351. Team No. 2: Martin, 271, Banks, 373, Loop, 347, Fredericks, 302, Weston, 312 and Dennison, 364.

MOTHER OF FORMER MARION WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Woodrow Hancock, 79, mother of Mrs. David Gardner of Cambridge, O., former Marion resident, died Thursday at Kissimmee, Fla. The funeral will be conducted Monday at 10 a. m. at the Rutherford funeral home on north High street in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner lived here many years. Mr. Gardner was associated in the Isaly Dairy Co. Mrs. Hancock visited them frequently. Besides her daughter she leaves four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The body will reach Columbus tonight. Burial will be made in the Woodrow lot at Union cemetery.

MRS. PITTS RELEASED FROM COUNTY JAIL

Woman Freed in Shooting After Husband Substantiates Story.

Mrs. Frank Pitts of 674 Sugar street, who was arrested late Saturday night following a shooting at her home in which her husband received a bullet wound in the jaw, was released from the county jail today after her husband had substantiated the story of the accidental shooting told by his wife following her arrest.

Pitts who is in the City hospital with the bullet lodged in his neck, told the police the shooting occurred while his wife was attempting to get possession of a revolver with which he had threatened to shoot her. His condition is reported to be steadily improving.

SURPRISE IS HELD FOR PASTOR, WIFE

MORRAL, March 19—The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church surprised Rev. and Mrs. George Schertzer at their home Thursday. A covered dish dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour. Time was spent in making quilt blocks. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Lona Baker. The program was in charge of Mrs. Stella Roberts. The scripture was read by Mrs. O. L. Pierman. Readings were given by Mrs. Helen Granlee, Mrs. Wanda McCumber, Mrs. W. A. Stewart and Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith. A duet was sung by Mrs. Stella Roberts and Mrs. Myrtle Hughes. A recitation was given by Mrs. Myrtle Hughes.

TREATMENT TO BE GIVEN STUDENTS

The immunization against diphtheria of between 300 and 400 Marion school children will start Monday, Health Commissioner Dr. Kenneth Smith said this morning. The toxin-antitoxin will be given by Dr. W. P. Johnson of the division of communicable diseases, assisted by the health commissioner and school nurse.

The children to be given the toxin-antitoxin will be those who reacted to the Shick test given several weeks ago. There are but two cases of the disease under quarantine at the present time, Dr. Smith said.

Turning New Pages

WITH EDNA B. DUTTON

INTIMATE glimpses into the life of Mark Twain and his family are revealed in his daughter's book, "My Father: Mark Twain," recently published by Harper & Brothers. The author is Clara Clemens Gabrilowitsch. The story naturally is tinged with affection and admiration but it gives the reader a vivid word picture of his character that does not duplicate any other story of his life.

While the author has portrayed in a fine way the devotion Mark Twain had for his family, particularly his wife, the fiery side of his life has not been glossed over but handled with honest appraisal. Through his daughter's eyes the reader learns to know him as a man of storm and sunshine, compassion and hatred, doubt and faith, a warm friend and a fearless enemy. There is a fine portrayal of his militant and courageous spirit in the chapter which tells of his setting out late in life, handicapped with delicate health to pay his debts brought about through bankruptcy in a business venture. Through it all his first thought is for his wife and family and for these he braves the hardships of long lecture tours and absence from his own fireside for long periods at a time. Through it all there is never lost his fine sense of humor and his ability to laugh at obstacles.

The volume is replete with letters of Mark Twain to his wife and no reminiscence is lost because the joke might seem to have been on this remarkable character. A sample of his great, good humor together with his ability to laugh when the laugh was on him, is found in his own account of a yachting trip to Nova Scotia with some friends in a letter to his wife.

Sailor Songs in Volume

A WORTH while volume is David W. Bone's "Captain Bars," which is interspersed with many of the author's reminiscences of a long life at sea. Although the volume is not so replete in historical background as other books on sailors' songs, it affords a delightful evening's reading. Like other compilers of this type of reading, the author tells that chanties were working songs, devised to lighten and help perform in unison the toil of wind-driven craft.. The writer mentions that the chanty was a safety-valve by which the sailors could criticize and abuse their officers in a way that they would not have been permitted to do as individuals.

Pirates Tale for Children

CAROLYN RODGERS' book for children, "Pirates' Loot," tells the story of Tad and Mary Marvel and their old friends Captain Welkie who make the acquaintance of Mr. Saffron the inventor and his children, Sally and Bob. Mr. Saffron has a wonderful machine which can be tuned to catch sound waves back through the centuries. With it the long dead pirates' voices are heard again in the cave and their heavy footfalls show the spot to which the treasure chest was taken. The children, who have played at being the famous Billy Gore and Jim Blench of local tradition, dial back to hear their originals as they quarrel over the division of the loot and finally shut the secret stone panel above the treasure, which comes to light just as it should, giving each finder a noble share of thrills and golden guineas. The story is for children eight to 10 years old.

Pictures Add to Bedtime Story

ANOTHER book for children is "Grandmother Tippytoe," by Lois Lenski. The story is colorful and is a nice tale to read aloud at bedtime and not a sleepy, boring tale either. The pictures are as much, if not more fun than the reading and all the objects from all Connecticut antique shops arrange themselves in patterns of use; nothing we call antique was anything but stylish to Grandmother "Tippytoe. There is an attic worth looking at seven times at least; the plot is about a lost needle.

Action Abounds in "Birthday Murder"

"THE BIRTHDAY MURDER," Kathleen Sproul, is a rapidly moving mystery story and is not without its thrills. The trail leads to such dubious maidens as Tuby Weston, who may have croaked Nick Gregorza, Tiny Applegate of the East Side and Clarabell Nilsson a batterfly, and the murderer may be any one of a half dozen characters. Richard Van Ryn Wilson is the likeable sleuth who believes that chance must play its part in every mystery story. It is Dick who catches the villain who bumps off beautiful Emily Justin of the Park Avenue Justins, in an automobile following a party at Jerry's.
